BERLIN, April 13 (AP)—The German high command announced tonight that two British submarines had been sunk in the North sea by German battle planes which surprised them as they rose to the surface.

AIR WAR RAGES

16 PLANES SHOT DOWN IN BATTLE

PLANE WAR RAGES

LONDON, April 13 (AP)—The naval war in the stormy seas off the Norwegian coasts turned today to a deadly conflict between British and German warplanes.

Britain has acknowledged loss of 11 bombing planes in attempts to dislodge German troops from Norwegian ports and destroy German naval vessels.

British fliers succeeded, the British said, in blowing up a munitions warehouse at the German-held port of Bergen, machine-gunning a destroyer and a motor torpedo boat, bombing German transport and supply ships, and shooting down four German Messerschmitt fighters. Two more of these Nazi planes were believed to have been destroyed and others damaged, the air ministry added.

NAZIS GRAB SHIPS IN NORWAY

BERLIN, April 13 (AP)—Germany today took over Norwegian ships in Norwegian harbors occupied by German forces and German crews were placed aboard the vessels, the official news agency DNB announced.

Meanwhile German sources reported German positions in Norway were being strengthened by the hour, with reinforcements reaching Oslo "in large numbers" and with German heavy artillery arriving in Trondheim to strengthen the coast defenses.

SEIZE LINE TO SWEDEN

German occupation troops east of Narvik, far northern Norwegian ore port, have taken possession of the rail line to the Swedish border, DNB said.

Germany reported that Britain was hammering away at German positions on the Norwegian coast, but ineffectively, losing 12 planes yesterday while the Germans were losing only five. This figure revised upward an earlier estimate of two Nazi planes lost.

The most effective British raid, German sources indicated, was at Stavanger, where the bombers came in waves but were met promptly by strong anti-aircraft fire.

BRITISH BOMB NAZIS

Reports from German quarters said only one English plane penetrated the air barrage far enough to drop effective bombs. One bomb burst near a barracks occupied by Germans, slightly injuring three soldiers, according to reports in Berlin.

The British lost eight planes in an ineffectual assault on the German-held Norwegian port of Bergen, the high command asserted, and later DNB said two additional planes were destroyed in this action.

The army also reported shooting down a plane at Olso and another at Narvik.

DNB, official Germany agency, said it was assumed Britain's 8250-ton, eight-inch-gun cruiser York—which reports abroad said had been sunk—was the vessel the Germans had reported hit twice and incapacitated.

The high command communique yesterday said a heavy cruiser had been "struck by two bombs and incapacitated" and a British aircraft carrier was "severely damaged by being squarely hit by heavy caliber airbombs."

British bombers raided the airport of the German-held southwestern Norwegian port of Stavanger today, dropping salvos of heavy bombs, damaging a hangar and shooting down a German pursuit plane, according to a British announcement.

The activities of Britain's powerful navy, where actions are necessarily bigger and slower, were clothed, for the moment in secrecy. Official announcements dealt only with actions of the air force yesterday.

The British announced that eight warplanes were lost in bomber attacks on fleeing German ships, mostly in Kristiansand fjord on the Skagerrak, against "strong opposition."

PLANES LOST AT SEA

Two more planes were lost at sea on the way home, the Admiralty said. Still another plane was lost in a forced landing in the attack on Bergen.

(Berlin asserted that the British lost 10 planes in the attack on Bergen, and that the Germans lost two there. The Germans said one more British plane was downed at Narvik, but did not mention British losses elsewhere.)

The British navy was supposed to be coursing the northern seas seeking German naval units. It was generally believed in London that the Allies would make no effort to land troops until the North Sea was cleared of German ships.

The admiralty communique this morning said:

"Operations against the enemy in Norwegian waters continue.

"Yesterday attacks were carried out by the fleet air arm against enemy warships, transports and supply ships at Bergen.

"Three large transports or supply ships were bombed.

"A warehouse containing munitions was blown up and a motor torpedo boat was machine-gunned.

RAKE NAZI DESTROYER

"Weather conditions were most unfavorable.

"One of our machines made a forced landing in the sea close to an island. The crew of two were observed to leave the aircraft.

Four Nazi destroyers were sunk in Narvik harbor. At sea (2), Nazis claim a British cruiser and aircraft carrier were hit . . . and at Trondheim (3) German warships grouped to defend that port. Five British, two German planes shot down off Khristiansund . . . while British forces try to contact Norwegians near Bergen (4). Successful bombings were claimed by British at Stavanger (5) and claim they sunk a Nazi vessel in the Belt (6) off Denmark. At Oslo, seven Nazi ships were reported trapped in the fjord.

RUMANIA SEES NAZI BREAK OVER TRADE SHUTDOWN

BUCHAREST, April 13 (AP)—Fears that German-Rumanian trade relations are rapidly nearing a crisis were expressed here today as Rumania suspended the loading of freight cars for the Reich preliminary to imposing an embargo on export of commodities needed for domestic use.

The suspension of car loadings followed swiftly Germany's action in banning export of a long list of articles to Rumania—among them metallurgical coke, which is vital to the Rumanian ore industry.

Loading of Danube river oil barges was suspended for several days, but Rumanian authorities said that high water at Giugiu was responsible. German trade quarters called this explanation a "pretext."

(International News Service dispatches from Bucharest, also gave the impression spring floods in the Danube were the cause of the stoppage of oil shipments from Giugiu. Resumption of transport traffic was expected to begin as soon as the floods

Norse in Furious Battle Hold Nazi Invaders at Bay

LONDON, April 13 (AP)—A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Stockholm reported fierce fighting in the extreme southeastern part of Norway following the landing of further German troops at Skieberg, near the Swedish frontier.

A report from Goteborg said practically all civilians had been removed from the Skieberg area and that refugees were pouring over the frontier into Sweden.

The Norwegian flag is still flying from the nearby fortress of Frederikshald, the agency said.

Farther north sharp street fighting was reported at Sarpsborg, some 20 miles from Halden, where the Norwegian Nazis are said to be numerous. Sarpsborg is about 35 miles south of Oslo.

Fighting is also reported north of Oslo. A Swedish broadcast from Stockholm, picked up in London, said a correspondent of the semi-official Swedish News Agency reported Jondsviger had been evacuated and that fighting was raging in Eidsvoll, 40 miles northeast of Oslo.

Swedes Speed Up Fight Plans, Bars Invasion

STOCKHOLM, April 13 (AP)—Sweden made urgent preparations today to fight, if necessary, in defense of her neutrality while German troops and warplanes strengthened the Nazi hold on Norway.

Along the southern Swedish coast, airfields were packed with parked taxicabs and other automobiles to prevent airplanes from landing.

Throughout the country, bomb shelters hastily are being constructed, and vehicles are being converted for burning charcoal in order to save precious gasoline.

Premier Pehr Albin Hansson declared there had been no demand on Sweden for use of her territory by any belligerent nation, but that if such a demand should ever be made, Sweden would have to refuse to comply with it.

CATCH NORSE BY SURPRISE

In Norway, meanwhile, a German force broke through Norwegian defenses between Moss, 35 miles south of Oslo, and Holen, 10 miles closer to the capital. Since the Germans were advancing toward Oslo they were presumed to BOMBED BY BRITISH—Raided by British bombers, numerous German aircraft were wrecked and a number of German soldiers were reported to have been killed in German-occupied Stavenger, on Norway's southwest coast, today.

Mexico Revolt Seen Red, Nazi Plot

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP)—Rep. Dies (D.) of Texas said today he had information that Russia and Germany were plotting to bring on a revolution in Mexico and set up a puppet government on the doorstep of the United States.

The House investigator told newsmen that Communist Russia was keeping alive, for use in a Mexican upheaval, the same organizations which functioned in the Spanish civil war.

This information, the Texan declared, constituted one of the reasons why his committee on un-American activities was questioning veterans of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, an organization of Americans who fought for the Barcelona government in Spain.

Dies said that 5000 to 6000 Americans were recruited by Communists for the brigade and that a military force of similar strength "might turn the decision" in Mexico. He was informed, he added, that Communist organizations in the United States were prepared to begin a new recruiting drive for a Mexican coup.

The committee head said that his information included elective officials in Mexico and one or two United States Senators, all of whose names he withheld. Among the things they told him, he declared, was that 10,000 Communists already had moved into Mexico from Spain and France.

Dies said he "certainly" regarded the information as authentic.

"I know," Dies said, "that German agents and Communist agents are active in Mexico now. I think we'll be able to develop this fully."

U. S. Warns: Let 3 Ships Pass

WASHINGTON, April 13 (INS)—The United States today notified the three nations fighting in northern Europe—Great Britain, Germany and Norway—that three United States freighters soon would proceed home from Norwegian ports and warned that they must not be molested by belligerent naval craft.

In addition, the United States asked that authorities of the warring nations give these vessels every assistance in avoiding the mine fields planted off Scandinavia.

The three ships are the Normacnes, understood to be at Trondheim; the Flying Fish and Charles R. McCormick, now at Bergen.

FRENCH CUT DOWN NAZIS IN CHARGE

PARIS, April 13 (AP)—The French high command announced tonight that Germany infantry troops attacking under a violent artillery barrage east of the Moselle, near the frontier of Luxembourg, were cut down by the French.

The attack coincided with sharp encounters at scattered points along the land front between Luxembourg and the Vosges.

The high command said French barbed wire held the wave of enemy attackers.

Casualties were not determined immediately.

PARIS, April 13 (AP)—Repulse of a German raid on an island in the Rhine, infantry activity along the river and firing of artillery at Germans building fortifications were reported today in the French communique from the western front.

Nazi Transport Sunk by Norse

LONDON, April 13 (AP)—A German transport, near Haguesund, has been sunk by the Norwegian destroyer Draug, which imprisoned 67 men from the Nazi ship, a Reuter (British) news agency report from Stockholm said today.

The prisoners were turned over to the British. A German plane attacked the Draug, but did not damage her.

BRITISH LABOR DEMANDS WAR END

LONDON, April 13 (INS)—The British Independent Labor Party issued a manifesto today, urging workers of the world to stop the European war.

The Independent Labor Party is an influential political group opposed to the policies of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's government.

It has criticized the government's war policies constantly since the European conflict began.

"There are signs that the war will extend over further parts of Europe, submerging one small nation after another in destruction and death," the statement said.

"Small nations are victims of the struggle of great powers to secure possession of economic resources necessary for their imperialist conflict.

"The Independent Labor party, which warned peoples of this danger from the beginning of the war . . . appeals to the workers of Britain and other belligerent nations and of countries which so far remain neutral to insist that the war be stopped before the disaster which threatens humanity spreads further."

Sailors See 3 Nazi Ships Sunk

LONDON, April 13 (AP)—A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Stockholm today said crew members of the Swedish steamer Boden reported three German destroyers were sunk by the British in Wednesday morning's battle in Narvik fjord.

The 4625-ton Boden was in Narvik at the time, when five British destroyers raced in to engage six German destroyers.

The Swedish seamen were quoted as saying 15 cargo ships, British, Swedish, Norwegian and German, including the Boden herself, were sunk during the battle. They said the Germans seized their lifeboats to rescue crews of the sinking German destroyers.

U. S. Sells Allies Fastest Planes

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP)—Great Britain and France were given official permission by the War Department today to place orders for a new model Douglas attack bomber believed to be the world's fastest of the type.

It was the fourth type of army plane released for sale abroad under the Administration's relaxed export policy.

A two-motor craft, the attack bomber is credited with a top speed of approaching 400 miles an hour, rivaling that of normally faster pursuit planes.

JAIL FRIENDSHIP COST BANDIT LIFE

A furtive friendship formed behind prison bars—then renewed by a chance meeting on a South End street corner—brought death to one paroled convict and landed another in police toils, the latter's alleged confession revealed today.

The slain man, shot down by a pursuing police officer after a Back Bay holdup, was Lawrence Reed, 37, once of Churchill pl., Dorchester.

Lawrence Reed

He was released from Charlestown State Prison only Wednesday.

The captured ex-convict who later told his story is Stephen Kane, 45, of Rice st., Cambridge.

He was paroled from State Prison last June. Police said he told them:

"I just bummed around after I got out of Charlestown last summer. I couldn't find any work, and I went from handout joint to handout joint.

BOTH NEEDED CASH

"Last night I had a few drinks in a place near Dover st. Then I took a walk up Tremont st. and ran into Reed. I remembered him from having met him in the prison.

"We got to talking and I said how hard up I was. Reed said he had just got out of stir and was flat broke, too.

"He suggested we try to grab some easy dough. He had a gun. I took it and we agreed I would stick this West Newton st. store guy up and Reed would handle the cash register.

"That was the way we did it. I held the gun on the storeman and shoved him in a telephone booth. Reed grabbed the cash.

SLAIN AS HE FLED

"Later when the cop and the store guy caught up with us on St. Botolph st., I knew the jig was up, so I surrendered. Reed took it on the lam and the copper drilled him."

Police said Kane denied having slugged the storekeeper, Sottir Vangel, 37.

Kane allegedly admitted he hid the holdup gun behind a cushion of the police cruising car which took him to the station house.

Reed, the slain ex-convict, was sentenced to state prison in 1938 for breaking and entering and attempted larceny, Department of Correction records showed.

Once released on parole only to be returned to prison for misbehavior, he served all but a few months of his maximum five-year term.

Patrolman Francis Fahey of the Back Bay station captured Kane and fatally wounded Reed.

Must Save Old Colony, Says Cahill

Service on the Old Colony division of the New Haven railroad must continue."

So declared Acting Governor Horace T. Cahill today as he announced an immediate appeal would be made to the full Interstate Commerce Commission from its present ruling eliminating the Old Colony from the New Haven reorganization plan.

"Service on the Old Colony division is of great importance to the welfare of the State of Massachusetts." Cahill's statement added. "We cannot allow the road to fold up. The welfare of too many industries and too many people is at stake.

"We intend to do all we can to save the service."

Cahill said he will place all the facts before Gov. Saltonstall tomorrow when he returns to the State House, following a two weeks' vacation in California. At that time he will recommend that all parties interested, including the attorney general, the special legislative railroad commission, Boston Chamber of Commerce and Old Colony Commuters' League officials, be called into conference to accomplish the task.

Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever also issued a statement in which he said "there is every hope that the Old Colony service may be permanently maintained."

235-Lb. Woman Own Fire Brigade

GARFIELD, Me., April 13 (AP)—Displaying unusual agility for a woman of 235 pounds, Mrs. Miles Corey saved her home from burning today by clambering up a ladder with a bucket of water, striding across the slanting roof and dousing flames which had just started atop the one-and-a-half-story structure.

Her husband was too ill to be of assistance.

'Strange Cargo' Barred in R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 13 (AP)—"Strange Cargo," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture starring Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, which was shown at first-run theaters here for two weeks, has been banned from further showing in Providence, it was learned today.

Capt. George W. Cowan, amusements inspector, said he had banned the picture after receiving a delayed report from the Legion of Decency, which has now classified "Strange Cargo" as a "condemned" film.

In its report the Legion said:

"This picture, in which religion is the prominent issue, presents a naturalistic concept of religion contrary to the teachings of Christ. Irreverent use of scripture.

"Lustful implications in dialogue and situation."

Cold Snap Blights Cherry Blossoms

WASHINGTON, April 13 (INS)—The coldest night on record here, for this date left the cherry blossoms round Washington's tidal basin tinged with brown today.

It was estimated that 65 per cent of the blossoms were blighted by the freezing temperature. However, park officials said that unless colder weather prevails there "will still be a good show" for the thousands expected here for the annual festival opening tonight.

Bandit's Plea For Mercy Vain

A youthful bandit's plea that he turned robber because his wife and baby were in need failed to win leniency in Chelsea court today

The defendant, Nathan Barron, 26, was held in bonds totalling $6300 on charges of attempted armed robbery, assault with a dangerous weapon and unlawful possession of a revolver.

Barron was captured after a struggle in a Broadway, Chelsea, dress shop. Police said he had locked the proprietress and a woman customer in a rear room and was rifling the cash register.

In court, with his attractive young blonde wife a tearful spectator, he told Judge Paul McDonald:

"I couldn't stand seeing my family in want. I wanted to get money to buy my wife and the baby food and clothes."

Avalanche Blocks McLellan Highway

A miniature avalanche, which dumped an estimated 10 tons of earth into the roadway, blocked McLellan highway, East Boston, at the junction of Waldeman st., today.

A hill about 65 feet high and 300 feet long sagged throughout its entire length following the heavy rains and swept away retaining fences. State highway workers are rushing removal of the dirt to eliminate a detour that would impede week-end traffic.

Kills Ailing Son, 15, But Isn't Sorry

HOUGHTON, Mich., April 13 (INS)—Unable to stand the pain of seeing his helpless son's invalidism, a grief-stricken father drowned his 15-year-old son in a "mercy" killing, it was revealed today.

Abraham White, 53, confessed to Sheriff John Salmi he had drowned his son, Frederick, in a wash tub, the sheriff said.

The boy, unable to walk and deaf and dumb, had been a helpless invalid since birth.

"I'm not sorry I did it," White told the sheriff. "I couldn't stand it any longer—day after day—seeing that poor boy—oh, my poor Frederick."

He told the sheriff he had decided to do away with his son when the boy's mother left on a visit with relatives. Carefully he went to the kitchen, got a portable washtub, and filled it with a half dozen pails of water.

Then, with the boy fighting to escape the father, the latter held his boy's head under the few inches of water, the sheriff said.

After the boy's struggles ceased the father put away the tub, left a note for the mother explaining why he had done the deed, and left to visit an undertaker. The note said:

"Dear Mandy: Frederick had a hard convulsion after you left. I am not going to see him suffer any longer. We have prayed to the Lord to take him away, but it hasn't happened, so I am going to do away with him. I know it will be a terrible shock to you, but I hope you can stand it."

GIRL ROBBED OF $178 PAYROLL IN NO. END

In a robbery in the heart of the busy North End market district, two youths snatched a $178 payroll from a pretty girl clerk today and escaped after a wild chase through streets congested with hucksters' carts and shopping crowds.

The victim was Christine Finlayson, 22, an employe of DeLuca Pellegrino & Co, wholesale fruit firm in Commercial st.

The girl had been to a bank to draw the money and was walking along Richmond st. on her way back to the Pellegrino Co. office when held up.

Two boys she described as about 15 years old were loitering at an alley entrance as she passed.

They stepped quickly to her side and snatched the gray paper bag in which she was carrying the cash. Then they fled down the alley toward Cross st.

Miss Finlayson's screams for help brought to the scene Patrolman Martin Kelly, assigned to traffic duty nearby.

Aided by civilians, he pursued the robbers through the alley and along Cross st. until the fugitives finally lost themselves in the market district crowd.

The Finlayson girl was near collapse as she told her story to police. Her home is in Hancock st., Beacon Hill.

She said she got a good look at only one of her assailants. She described him as about 15, five feet seven inches tall, weighing 150 pounds and wearing a hip-length brown jacket.

FLOOD PERIL GROWS IN N. E., SNOW, RAIN IN FREAK STORM

Storm-swollen rivers slipped over their banks in several sections of New England today as meterologists warned serious floods could be averted only by a quick freeze-up.

The Merrimack river, running at freshet speed through Lowell, was reported to have flooded areas in New Hampshire.

NEAR DANGER STAGE

Elsewhere in the New England section the Penobscot and Connecticut rivers were watched for flood indications.

The rapid rise of rivers to the flood point was blamed on the freak double storm, which first drenched the section with warm rain and then lashed it with snow and hail.

Lock and canal officials in Lowell said the rate of water flow at the Pawtuxet dam was 34,000 cubic feet a second. The freshet stage is 35,000 cubic feet.

The Connecticut is already above the 16-foot minimum flood stage and is surging steadily higher following today's storm.

The weather bureau has predicted the Connecticut will reach a crest Monday of between 22 and 23 feet, a mark that may flood Hartford streets and meadowland near the river.

The 1936 flood, worst in Hartford's history, crested at 37.5 feet.

FREEZE-UP WILL HELP

At Concord, N. H., A. D. Ross, meteorologist at the weather bureau, reported the Merrimack was overflowing lowlands at several points. A more serious condition, he said, was averted by a freeze-up.

Up in the Berkshires spring plowing was in order. But it was all being done in state highways where a four-inch snowfall piled up drifts along both the Mohawk Trail and Jacob's Ladder routes.

Week-end skiing conditions were reported excellent throughout the northern New England section where much colder conditions were predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

SNOW COVERS ROADS

Residents of Athol and Orange were apprehensive over a sharp rise in the Millers river. Roads near Keene, N. H., were closed as the swollen Ashuelot flooded the lowlands.

Jessel, 42, Weds N. Y. Show Girl, 16

DETROIT, April 13 (INS)—The "May-December" romance of George Jessel, 42, radio and stage comedian, and pretty Lois Andrew, 16-year-old Broadway show girl, culminated in marriage this afternoon with Common Pleas Court Judge Groat performing the ceremony in a flower-decked suite of a downtown hotel.

Jessel nervously paced his suite awaiting the time for the ceremony. He proudly exhibited telegrams from stage and screen figures wishing him good luck.

The bride entered the suite on the arm of James H. R. Cromwell, U. S. minister to Canada. She wore a white satin gown with a four-foot train and carried orchids.

The bride was attended by Betty Allen, also a New York actress.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple began to prepare for their departure for Hartford, Ct., where Jessel is scheduled to appear next week in a stage show.

Jessel, filling a night club engagement in Detroit, arrived in town with Lois earlier in the week, planning to wed immediately, but his petition for a waiver of the five-day law was refused by Probate Judge Joseph A. Murphy.

The comedian has been married twice, to Florence Courtney and Norma Talmadge, film star.

WORCESTER, April 13—After brutally beating his young wife and her 16-year-old brother with a hammer, Thomas Dowd, 36, slashed his throat with a razor blade here today.

The boy hammer victim, Herbert Seaver, jumped through a window in an effort to escape Dowd's attack.

At City Hospital, young Seaver was reported in serious condition, with a possible fracture of the skull. Dowd was expected to live, although suffering from severe throat wounds, including a partly severed windpipe.

He is a WPA worker.

BURGESS MEREDITH'S FIRST WIFE KILLS SELF

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—Helen Derby, 34, divorced first wife of Burgess Meredith, stage and screen actor, was found dead in the gas-filled kitchen of her Washington Square apartment today.

Police said she had written a will on a calendar pad and closed with these words:

"Feeling fine except for fumes. (signed) H."

She was the daughter of Mr. a. t Mrs. Harry L. Derby of Montclair, N. J., her father is president and a director of the American Cyanamid and Chemical Corp. and an officer of several other firms.

Miss Derby and Meredith were divorced in 1935. She previously had been married to Stephen Berrin in 1926.

Her body, fully clothed, was found on the floor by Ruth Ringheim, governess for Miss Derby's 12-year-old daughter. A police emergency crew failed to revive her.

Police said the will read:

"I leave all I have to Ted and Ruth Michel, 325 West 13th st. My bank accounts, etc., and all my furniture too. One o'clock, Helen."

Forgives Much, Not Broken Back

OMAHA, Neb., April 13 (AP)—Mrs. Lee Felthauser forgave her husband when he broke her arm 12 years ago, she testified in her divorce suit.

She forgave him for an eye cut that required three stitches eight years ago. Three years ago he broke her nose, but their three children kept them together, she said. Once he cracked her hip bone.

"Last January," she continued, "he threw me across the davenport so hard he cracked three vertebrae in my back. He got 60 days for that."

Then she sued for divorce.

Judge Dineen gave her a divorce and $15 a week alimony.

ISLAND UTOPIA FAILS AS PIONEERS DESERT

MIAMI, Fla., April 13 (AP)—Sunburned, mosquito-bitten and disillusioned, nearly half of a pioneering band of Californians have abandoned their search for an "ideal existence" on a remote island in the British West Indies.

Little more than a month after forsaking civilization to colonize East Caicos, 700 miles southeast of here Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Lawrence returned yesterday with word that nine of the original 19 had left the island.

Lawrence, a former San Francisco salesman, leaned across the rail of the motor vessel Monarch of Nassau and kissed the dock as he reached the mainland. Later he danced a jig.

"I'll never go back," said Mrs. Lawrence. "I've had enough."

The couple, reluctant to explain details of their experience, said R. C. Irvine, leader of the group, and his family also has deserted the island which they found overrun with wild jackasses. The Lawrences declined to discuss reports that there had been dissension among the colonists.

The health of Irvine's family, Lawrence said, was imperiled by mosquito bite infections and exposure to the sun.

The Lawrences last saw the Irvines at South Caicos, where they arrived on native fishing boats. The couple boarded the motor vessel at Great Inagua.

With Irvine, his wife and four children was Ned Read, 18, of Pasadena. Among the 10 remaining on the island were Mr. and Mrs. James Lake, who leased the property

"The remaining aircraft returned to their base in safety."

Other British sources told of a Royal Air Force plane damaging a German Dornier flying boat and raking a German destroyer with hundreds of rounds of machine-gun fire in a North sea battle.

Diving through a snowstorm, this report said, the pilot of a coast command bomber opened fire at 1500 feet and swept the decks of the destroyers until he was only 500 feet above her.

The plane was said to have attacked the flying boat immediately afterward and to have reported it lost height with both engines afire and with only a bare chance of reaching land.

One shot pierced the British plane's gasoline tank.

"Fuel was escaping rapidly, and with half the North sea to cross they turned westward to begin a race against the leaking tank," the authorized account said.

"With accurate navigation and careful nursing of the petrol consumption, the aircraft returned safely."

Another bomber formation flying northward toward Stavanger, gave battle to a large force of German pursuit planes which apparently were assigned to protect the retreating naval vessels.

With the sealing of the Baltic Sea by a gigantic mine field planted in its North Sea approaches, including the Skagerrak and the Kattegat, the British and French allied navies counted on bottling up the remaining German fleet and thus simplifying the job of cutting the life line between Germany and the Nazi forces in Norway.

MAY INVADE BELGIUM

Reports from Stockholm, Sweden, that the Norwegians were putting up hot resistance against the invaders strengthened the British belief that the Germans soon would be in an untenable position.

Some observers predicted that if the Norwegian adventure went badly for Germany, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler might try a stab in another direction — possibly into Sweden, Belgium or the Netherlands.

Military observers contended that the Nazis had bitten off more than they could chew when they sank their teeth into Norway.

That little country's deep ravines and scanty communication systems favor defenders in a guerrilla warfare, making impracticable the lightning action of mechanized forces such as subdued Poland in less than a month and moved into Denmark almost without opposition.

Geography, however, also offered serious tactical difficulties to the Allies in any attempt to land forces to aid the Norwegians.

The broken coasts with deep, narrow inlets are readily defended. Unless troops are landed by stealth and surprise, as the Germans were Tuesday, they could be chopped down by a few machine-gunners, these observers said.

The British said there was no major naval engagement in the Kattegat Friday, despite Swedish reports of explosions heard in that region.

U. S. SHIP SEES MINE OFF COAST

A deadly mine, believed to have torn loose from Europe's embattled waters, was reported today only 550 miles off Newfoundland.

Discovery of the mine was made by the former United States line's passenger-freighter American Importer, now flying the Belgian flag as the Ville de Gand.

The captain of the Villa de Gand, one of eight ships sold to Belgian interests, radioed the branch hydrographic office of the Navy in Boston the following message:

"Sighted floating mine 550 miles east of Cape Race, N. F., 3:18 a. m. today."

The message was signed: "Master, Ville de Gand."

The hydrographic office immediately broadcast a warning to all ships at sea.

Hydrographic officials are at a loss to explain the position of the mine because of the known movements of currents which they maintain would not carry a floating object from European waters so far north.

Because of the neutrality laws, there are now no American ships operating in the North Atlantic steamship lanes, but there is danger that the mine might float into the fishing banks.

Neither the navy nor the Coast Guard plan to take any immediate action, but it is thought because of the danger to British shipping the Canadian government would order a destroyer to find the mine.

The Ville de Gand is due in New York tomorrow from Havre, Antwerp and Southampton.

OSLO AIRPORT IN NAZI CONTROL—Serving as an airbase for Nazi planes, this Oslo airport was one of valuable vantage points seized in German blitzkrieg on Norway. Today, Norwegian soldiers attempted to complete an impenetrable ring of steel around Oslo, where seven Nazi battelships are reported bottled up.

be newly-landed troops pushing up the shore of Oslo fjord to join the invaders' expeditionary army.

Advices reaching here said the German advance caught the Norwegians by surprise and they had no time to meet it.

Defense troops, holding positions along the narrow fjord, had established a semi-circular line from Moss to Holen, east to Mysen, northward, east of the river Glommen and Lake Oieren to Romerike, thence southward to Tyri fjord and Vikesund, which is about 30 miles west of Oslo.

Fortifications were being thrown up in the valleys to the northwest to bolster the ring.

ADVANCE IN BUSES

The German advance from Moss was said to have been accomplished in commandeered buses and automobiles and to have been impeded, at least briefly, when a bridge was dynamited as the first bus crossed a stream.

Refugees from the Holen region reached Stockholm by automobile today and said they had been ordered by Norwegian police to speed for the Swedish frontier to keep their motorcade from falling into the hands of the advancing Germans.

The Germans, however, were reported harassed within Oslo when Norwegians blew up a large dam at nearby Solbergsfors and cut off the city's electricity.

American Red Cross To Aid Norwegians

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP)—Norman H. Davis, chairman, today instructed 3700 American Red Cross chapters to accept voluntary contributions for the relief of war sufferers in Norway.

Norse Air Hero Rams Nazi Plane

STOCKHOLM, April 13 (INS)—A dramatic, last-ditch act of heroism in which the final survivor of the Oslo air force sent his plane hurtling into a huge Nazi bomber, was reported in Stockholm today.

Outnumbered, out-gunned and alone, the last Norwegian pilot determined to take a Nazi bomber crew to death with him. His motor roaring, he dove head-on into the German bomber wrecking it.

Ministers Flee Denmark

COPENHAGEN, April 13 (AP)—The British, French and Polish ministers and their staffs departed today for the neutral Netherlands, leaving behind hundreds of their nationals still seeking means of getting out of German-occupied Denmark.

Many of these frantic foreigners turned for aid to the United States legation which, already busy handling the affairs of some 700 Americans, was expected to take care of British and French interests in the emergency.

Nazis Fly U. S. Flag in Ship Ruse

STOCKHOLM, April 13 (INS)—The Norwegian Telegraph Bureau today carried a story that the first Nazi transport to enter Narvik harbor in the lightning stroke of Tuesday flew the American flag.

Seeing the American colors, Norwegian pilots went out to the transport and guided it through the fjord, it was claimed, thus unwittingly aiding in Narvik's capture.

Rumania Sees Rift With Nazis

subside, authorities stated.

(Reports published abroad describing a rupture in German-Rumanian trade relations and a suspension of freight car loadings for Germany were denied in Bucharest, according to these dispatches.)

Official sources said that the economic council of the Rumanian cabinet was drafting a list of raw materials which would be embargoed on the ground they are needed for internal consumption.

It was expected generally that this action would be followed by stiff demands from Germany—perhaps insisting that Rumania cut her trade with the Allies and direct her exports almost wholly to the Reich.

Sources close to the government, however, said that any such demands would be rejected firmly.

An apparent indication of the serious view which the government takes of the general situation was an urgent meeting which Premier Gheorghe Tatarescu held last night with the Rumanian general staff.

15 on Sunken British Destroyer Missing

LONDON, April 13 (AP)—An Admiralty casualty list today recorded as missing or dead five officers and 10 seamen of the destroyer Gurkha, which was sunk Tuesday by German bombers off Norway. Three other crewmen were reported wounded.

HAAKON STAYS IN NORWAY

STOCKHOLM, April 13 (INS)—Haggard and obviously under terrific nervous strain, King Haakon VII of Norway today announced in a dramatic interview that he will remain in Norway "as long as an inch of Norwegian soil remains."

His attitude indicated Norway will fight to the bitter end.

The 68-year-old monarch, who evacuated his Oslo palace with the Norwegian government when the Germans attacked the capital, made that grim pledge in a conversation with Gunnar Kuntsson, correspondent.

"Ever since I left Oslo on Tuesday I have hardly had a wink of sleep and not once have I been able to change my clothes," King Haakon said.

"It seems to me that all civilization has ended. Not a town or village is safe for me any longer. My ministers can visit Sweden, but I must stay in Norway as long as an inch of Norwegian soil remains."

Wearing the uniform of a Norwegian general, the King told of a narrow escape from death by German bombs yesterday. He said:

'It was horrible. We were near Nybergsund and the town was being bombed.

"I had been trying to sleep when the explosions started. Four bombs burst near by, but I escaped."

Nazis Warn Swedes Not to Go British

By PIERRE J. HUSS

BERLIN, April 13 (INS)—Nazi Germany today sharply warned Sweden against "betting on" a British victory and claimed that the Allies already have suffered a "basic defeat" in Norway.

A German navy announcement said that the Trondheim coastal forts, captured by the Germans, were not damaged and have now been reinforced with heavy German batteries.

The railroad from Narvik to the Swedish frontier has been occupied by the Germans.

Announcing the safe landing of German reinforcements at Oslo yesterday, the high command claimed a number of allied setbacks at sea and in the air, minimizing Nazi losses and asserting that the British failed to aid Norway.

Authentic Nazi quarters accused the Swedish government of "deliberately falling for British propaganda."

POLES' FATE FOR NORSE?

"If the Swedes want to bet on England, that is all right with us," a German spokesman said. "But the responsibility will be theirs if they drive Norway, through false encouragement, along the road to Poland.

'The Swedish announcement that no foreign troops may be landed there does not change the situation in Norway so far as we are concerned. It may change it, however, for the Norwegians."

These same quarters suggested King Haakon of Norway appoint a "sound Norwegian government" to negotiate with Germany.

"No power on earth can drive us out of Norway by force," the spokesman declared.

The spokesman minimized the value of British mine-laying in the North sea.

"The British navy cannot lay mines in spots which its ships cannot reach," he said.

CHALLENGE TO BRITAIN

"Moreover, the technical difficulties of laying such a mine barrier across the deep waters of the Skagerrak present a problem which cannot be solved in a few days."

The Germans are awaiting some British action against the German positions in Norway.

"It is inconceivable," they said, "that a great sea power like England would permit such a challenge to its prestige to go unanswered."

Most neutrals now seem resigned to whatever may come. This is even true of Sweden, according to the authoritative German view.

Sweden, which hitherto openly encouraged the Norwegians to resist the invasion, seems on the verge of abandoning its anti-German tactics. Stockholm is said to be taking steps to curb alleged exaggerations by the Swedish press and radio.

Hub Liner Sights S. S. Queen Mary

The Queen Mary, zigzagging south at top speed, was sighted at 7 a. m., March 28, 80 miles off Cape San Roque, Brazil, by passengers and crew of the West Isleta, which arrived here today from South Africa.

Four days later, when the West Isleta docked in Trinidad, it was learned from port authorities that the Queen Mary had stopped there for fuel, and that the Queen Elizabeth and Normandie were expected shortly.

The West Isleta, of the American-South American Line, carried 12 passengers and a cargo which included ostriches, cranes, and springbok for a New York zoo.

U.S. WOMAN ENVOY FLEES NAZI BOMBERS

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP)—Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, 70-year-old United States minister to Norway, reported today that she was safe and in excellent health in a Swedish border town after a series of unsuccessful efforts to reach headquarters of the war-harried Norwegian government.

She talked by telephone with Frederick Sterling, American minister at Stockholm, who reported to the State Department she was Mrs. Harriman crossed the border into Sweden after German air raids had driven the Norwegian government successively from its refuge capitals at Elverum and Nybersund.

Sterling asserted Mrs. Harriman said she was joined at Helges today by Capt. Frank B. Losey, American military attache for Norway and Sweden.

Secretary Hull said in a message to Mrs. Harriman:

"I am greatly relieved to learn thatyou and your party are safe and in good health. I congratulate you on the courage, energy and efficiency with which you are performing your duties under such trying and dangerous conditions. It is in the best traditions of the diplomatic service."

Earlier Mrs. Harriman had given through the Stockholm ministry a first-hand account of Nazi bombings which she said had caused 50 civilian casualties and narrowly missed King Haakon.

The State Department summary of her report, said:

"She was on the outskirts of Elverum when it was bombed. She had gone there with the Norwegian Government. They stayed outside the town.

"The government moved night before last to Nybergsund. She was in contact with the foreign minister yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock who told her to come to Nybergsund if she could get there. The only way was for her to go through Elverum but the German forces were bombing Elverum so she could not get through last night to Nybergsund.

"She went to a farm house where she spent last night. With the help of a farmer, and with Miss Lindgren, who is her private secretary, and her maid and chauffeur, she got through the Elverum barricade this morning and reached Heljes."

TRADE NOTES

By Harry Chomes

DuPont Homsey Co., investment dealers, have prepared for distribution a folder outlining significant facts about Christiana Securities Co., which recently declared a dividend of $33.25 a share on its common stock.

The folder points out that Christiana Securities is a duPont holding company whose investments include 27 per cent of the outstanding common stock of E. I. duPont de Nemours Co., together with a block of General Motors stock and other miscellaneous holdings in duPont enterprises.

"The market value of Christiana has varied in recent years from about 74 per cent to 82 per cent of its liquidating value," the firm points out. "Thus it sells at approximately 15 times the price of duPont while representing an equity of nearly 20 shares."

The folder includes a 12-year record of dividend income and earnings balance sheet at the close of 1939, an assets valuation table, and other statistical data.

DANGER AFTER WAR

The Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act that has been extended for three more years by the New Deal Administration is a bid for export trade at the expense of New England industry. At the present time the outbreak of hostilities in Europe has prevented a flood of imports which would have been disastrous in its effect on the wool industry which, of course, is New England's largest industry. In the opinion of the wool manufacturers there is even a greater danger to this native industry from what will virtually be conscript labor abroad after the war.

BRITISH HAVE EDGE

An interesting observation by Alfred C. Rockwell, Leominster woolen manufacturer, states:

"This pact was originated some two or three years ago when the pound sterling was figured on a basis of $4.86½. Today the pound sterling fluctuates somewhere between $3.47 and $3.58. As a basis, call it $3.50. Yesterday it closed at $3.58.

"Our dollars figured on a $4.86½ basis will buy a great many more goods on the $3.50 basis than at $4.86½,—probably one-third more. When we buy wool of them they peg their value at $4.05,—in other words, we have a pegged duty, therefore in addition to the reduced tariff in effect now, the United Kingdom has a further advantage through the fluctuation of the pound sterling equivalent to another one-third.

"The only reason we are not buried with goods today is they are at war and using their machinery for other purposes. When we have the saturation point and necessities for war cease, they will turn to selling us goods and bury us.

"When the war is over a similar condition will arise and before we turn around and change the duty, they will have us filled with goods for the next two or three years because they can beat us with this present tariff and value of money to such an extent that in most of the staple goods that we make it will be impossible to compete with them."

POOR ARRANGEMENT

Rockwell further says:

"Any pact made with the premise and the basis that the war would keep the goods out is a very poor arrangement. The pact should be drawn up for peacetime regulation rather than wartime regulation, and I cannot figure out how anybody knows whether the value of the English pound sterling is going to jump back to $4.86½ when the war is over or not."

March business with the co-operative banks in the state wound up with a splendid gain of 16 per cent in mortgages recorded during the fiscal week over those of the week previous.

This not only showed a worthwhile gain among the co-operative banks themselves, but also registered 53 per cent of all the mortgages recorded by all thrift and loan institutions in Massachusetts.

This maintains the record established more than a year ago whereby more than one in every two mortgages on homes written by such institutions were written by co-operative banks.

"In view of all of the competition which co-operative banks face in the home mortgage field," says Warner M. Allen, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League, "this is a remarkable showing and one which reflects the importance of both the service and the mortgage contracts written by the co-operative banks.

"People who make a thorough investigation find the co-operative banks are offering about as fine mortgage arrangements as can be obtained anywhere and that the service rendered by these banks is outstanding. This too is a factor in keeping co-operative banks in the lead."

NAZI AIDE TO WATCH U. S. TRADE

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—Dr. Gerhardt Alois Westrick, a leading German economic and trade expert, is in New York with special diplomatic status as commercial counsellor to the German embassy, for the stated purpose of keeping an eye on German-U. S. trade relations.

Westrick, a friend and associate of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, leading German economist, arrived by way of Siberia, while the British were stopping and searching transatlantic liners for Schacht or any other German economist bound this way.

Wall Street has buzzed recently with reports that Schacht and others had evaded the search and arrived in Manhattan for the purpose of working out a new economic basis for U. S. trade relations to circumvent the British economic blockade.

Dr. Westrick was reliably reported to have been in touch with a number of leading U. S. firms with heavy investments in Germany.

It was believed German economists might be attempting to arrange unofficially some barter basis through firms with large investments in Germany.

PUZZLES DIVIDED INTO SERIES

The six puzzles appearing from Monday through Saturday of each week comprise a series. This week's series (the Ninth) should be submitted at any time before midnight, Saturday, April 20. Subsequent series should similarly be submitted within the week following publication in the Record and American. (You can follow the contest in either paper.)

ENCLOSE TEN CENTS IN COIN with each weekly series of six answers, in accordance with the rules.

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employes of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each weekday in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor c/o the Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One Hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance, in the office of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In cases of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the Contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the Contestant.

Thin Out Vegetable Crops

By T. W. LEGGETT

Most vegetable crops must be thinned out in the early stages of growth. If left until they attain some size it is impossible to thin them without checking the growth of those that remain. This does not apply to carrots and beets, which may be thinned when some are large enough to use.

It is the half-grown carrots that are most delicious, and the growth is so much more in length than in the diameter of the root that the thinning process does not disturb the others so much.

Turnips must be thinned before they begin to form. The early turnips are round and flat. They do not grow well if crowded. If thinning is postponed until the roots begin to form, the growth of all is checked and the ravages of worms, which are always ready to feed on turnips, are likely to be fatal. If the young plants are pulled up so they stand 4 inches apart in the row, they will be large enough to use in a remarkably quick time.

Beets are more easily handled than turnips when they are a little larger, and one should not fail to try a dieh of beet tops with the tiny roots just beginning to form. It is a delicious introduction to the garden menu. The beets which are left in the ground should be spaced 2 inches apart.

Salsify, parsnips and witloff chicory, which are to remain in the ground all season, should be thinned early to 3 or 4 inches apart in the row. If your soil is rich, the smaller interval will do, but if it is not, give more room.

Bush lima beans will never develop properly if crowded. A foot and a half to two feet should be given to each plant for best results. Bush beans, green pod and wax, should have three or four inches, depending on the richness of the soil. Peas are not usually thinned but should be planted with plenty of room to grow.

Radishes are usually thinned by using them. This always results in a lot of imperfect specimens which must be thrown away. It is a good plan to thin the seedlings when they first appear.

Leaf lettuce should be thinned, when growth begins, to about one inch between plants. As lettuce is usually planted, this means discarding the big majority of the seedlings. Those remaining will develop rapidly, however, and soon will be large enough for some to be used. Pull up alternate plants for this use.

U. S. PLOT DEFENDANT IS SUICIDE

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—Claud Gunther Ernecke, 36, one of 17 defendants on trial in Brooklyn federal court on sedition charges, was found hanged today in the cellar of a Brooklyn apartment building. He had been missing since yesterday when he failed to appear at the trial.

Judge Marcus B. Campbell had ordered Ernecke's $7500 bond forfeited when he failed to appear despite the pleas of his lawyer that he felt Ernecke's absence was involuntary.

The attorney, former Magistrate Leo Healy, told the court his client had received several death threats. Healy said Ernecke had only $1.20 "to his name" when he last saw him on Thursday.

The attorney said Ernecke had seemed frantic when he told him of threats against his life.

"'What'll I do? What'll I do! he kept telling me. He walked up and down, up and down, talking about the case and the threats against his life. I said to him,

"Oh, it was terrible, watching the poor fellow. I showed him threatening leters I had received. I told him they had threatened to kidnap my two litle children, but that didn't seem to convince him."

The trial was adjourned Wednesday when Dennis Healy, principal witness for the government, fainted after three days' cross-examination by Ernecke's attorney.

When it resumed yesterday Healy was still too ill to testify.

Healy, the witness, had portrayed Ernecke, a native of Berlin and a member of the Bund, as one of the leaders in the alleged plot to overthrow the government, and had testified that the German had told him he would like to fight against "Jewish refugee Americans." Ernecke was in the New York National Guard.

Judge Campbell said yesterday the trial would continue Monday.

HERE YOU see Miriam Hopkins being a Southern spy in "Virginia City," exciting story of the Confederacy's daring attempt to run a huge shipment of gold from Nevada to Richmond to give new life to a dying nation. The picture, which co-stars Errol Flynn and Randolph Scott, is due at the Paramount and Fenway theaters next Thursday.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 13—Our old friend Harry Brandt of the Independent Theater Owners feels like talking again—but this time he's in a flattering mood. In place of picking 1939's ten "poison stars" at the box office (remember what a riot that selection caused?) he has turned Pollyanna and chosen stars who saved the box office last year.

He lists: Clark Gable, Bette Davis, Mickey Rooney, Ginger Rogers, Deanna Durbin, Tyrone Power, Spencer Tracy, Myrna Loy, James Stewart and Jean Arthur.

He's certain to get plenty of "yea man" votes picking Deanna so high on the roster. It was a disgrace that she was left off the Motion Picture Herald's "official" list.

Doesn't seem possible with the terrible war news in the headlines that England should be going ahead with movie plans. But Gabrial Pascal, George Bernard Shaw's favorite producer, has cabled Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., an offer to star in the bearded bard's "Major Barbara" and also in "The Doctor's Dilemma."

And if young Doug can tear himself away from the proud papa role he's playing in private life in Hollywood, he may accept. However, if things get more serious over there I can't help but think production must be curtailed so Doug may not have to make up his mind immediately.

Film Reveals Screen Secrets

"Northward Ho," a picture about a picture or, to be more explicit, a film short revealing the intricacies of making the spectacular production, "Northwest Passage," is now being featured on the South Station Theater screen program.

It is an interesting closeup on Hollywood production methods.

Boston Boys in Limelight When Shuberts' Show Opens

Two of the outstanding figures connected with "Keep Off the Grass," the new musical coming to the Shubert Theater April 29, are Boston boys. They are Ray Bolger and Jimmy McHugh, composer of the tunes.

Ray has not danced in Boston since his appearance here several seasons ago in "On Your Toes." Since that time he has been in Hollywood, but now he is under contract to the Messrs. Shubert, who are starring him in the new revue and who have plans for him for the next few seasons.

Jimmy McHugh, of course, like Mr. Bolger, is well known here. His last Boston show was "The Streets of Paris"; his last Hollywood assignment was writing the score of "Buck Benny Rides Again."

When Nan Rae and Maude Davis are seen at the Shubert Theater in "Keep Off the Grass," they will have entirely new material. Their famous act, "The Inquiring Reporter," has been dropped. "Folies Bergere," incidentally, closed in Philadelphia last week, thus releasing Rae and Davis.

Among the new Jimmy McHugh-Al Dubin songs in the forthcoming musical is a tropical tune called "Rhett Butler," a take-off on "Gone With the Wind." Another number is "A Little Tune, a Manhattan Moon." The number amusingly pokes fun at the craze for South American music.

PROVIDENCE GIVES GEORGE M. COHAN ROUSING WELCOME

His Vagabond Role Cheered

PROVIDENCE, April 13 — Amid cheers and a storm both in the street and in the theater, George M. Cohan opened here last night in his new play, "The Return of the Vagaband."

The applause was thundering; a capacity crowd greeting the only Cohan.

The old tavern scene looked much as it did years ago, but the play is all new.

Judge James F. Dooley, Raymond J. McMahon, Lieut. Governor James McManus and the entire General Assembly were among the fashionable audience.

George M. Cohan

Mr. Cohan was in good form, singing a little and joshing a great part of the evening. And he did a little jig for good measure.

Giving the star excellent support was a most capable cast. The latter included McKay Morris, Marie Louise Dana, Celeste Holm and Ed McNamara.

The new Cohan show is written for laughs and the goodly crowd laughed continuously.

After two thunderous curtain calls at the end of the play, news photographers' flashlights blazed and flowers in large profusion were lifted over the footlights.

George M. was too thrilled for words—he merely said, "Thanks." It was a thrilling night at a thrilling comedy.

THE GAYEST LARK of the waning legitimate season is promised on Monday night when George M. Cohan returns as author-manager-star of his own play at the Colonial Theater. The show is called "The Return of the Vagabond" and is described as a sequel to "The Tavern." Celeste Holm is importantly cast in the Cohanesque travesty.

Midgets on M. & P. Bills

The five M. & P. suburban theaters are offering the celebrated Hermine's Midgets as an added attraction to next week's regular double-feature bills. These are the 15 doll-size stars, who will be featured beginning next month at Morris Gest's Midget Village at the New York World's Fair.

They have their own swing band and they dance, sing, juggle and present a daring trapeze act. They will appear at both the matinee and evening performances at the following suburban theaters: Tomorrow, Egyptian Theater, Brighton; Monday, Jamaica Theater, Jamaica Plain; Tuesday, Wollaston Theater, Wollaston; Thursday, Codman Square Theater, Dorchester; Sunday (April 21), Allston Theater, Allston.

Drive-In Opens At Weymouth

The Drive-In Theater at Weymouth, New England's first open-air auto theater, will initiate its fifth consecutive season tonight at 8 o'clock with the showing of "East Side of Heaven," co-starring Bing Crosby and Jean Blondell with Baby Sandy and Mischa Auer. New shows will be presented weekly with changes of program on Saturday and Wednesday. Children under 10 will be admitted free.

The management of the popular theater also operates drive-ins at Saugus and Shrewsbury.

Thin Out Vegetable Crops

By T. W. LEGGETT

Most vegetable crops must be thinned out in the early stages of growth. If left until they attain some size it is impossible to thin them without checking the growth of those that remain. This does not apply to carrots and beets, which may be thinned when some are large enough to use.

It is the half-grown carrots that are most delicious, and the growth is so much more in length than in the diameter of the root that the thinning process does not disturb the others so much.

Turnips must be thinned before they begin to form. The early turnips are round and flat. They do not grow well if crowded. If thinning is postponed until the roots begin to form, the growth of all is checked and the ravages of worms, which are always ready to feed on turnips, are likely to be fatal. If the young plants are pulled up so they stand 4 inches apart in the row, they will be large enough to use in a remarkably quick time.

Beets are more easily handled than turnips when they are a little larger, and one should not fail to try a dish of beet tops with the tiny roots just beginning to form. It is a delicious introduction to the garden menu. The beets which are left in the ground should be spaced 2 inches apart.

Salsify, parsnips and witloff chicory, which are to remain in the ground all season, should be thinned early to 3 or 4 inches apart in the row. If your soil is rich, the smaller interval will do, but if it is not, give more room.

Bush lima beans will never develop properly if crowded. A foot and a half to two feet should be given to each plant for best results. Bush beans, green pod and wax, should have three or four inches, depending on the richness of the soil. Peas are not usually thinned but should be planted with plenty of room to grow.

Radishes are usually thinned by using them. This always results in a lot of imperfect specimens which must be thrown away. It is a good plan to thin the seedlings when they first appear.

Leaf lettuce should be thinned, when growth begins, to about one inch between plants. As lettuce is usually planted, this means discarding the big majority of the seedlings. Those remaining will develop rapidly, however, and soon will be large enough for some to be used. Pull up alternate plants for this use.

U. S. PLOT DEFENDANT IS SUICIDE

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—Claud Gunther Ernecke, 36, one of 17 defendants on trial in Brooklyn federal court on sedition charges, was found hanged today in the cellar of a Brooklyn apartment building. He had been missing since yesterday when he failed to appear at the trial.

Judge Marcus B. Campbell had ordered Ernecke's $7500 bond forfeited when he failed to appear despite the pleas of his lawyer that he felt Ernecke's absence was involuntary.

The attorney, former Magistrate Leo Healy, told the court his client had received several death threats. Healy said Ernecke had only $1.20 "to his name" when he last saw him on Thursday.

The attorney said Ernecke had seemed frantic when he told him of threats against his life.

"'What'll I do? What'll I do?' he kept telling me. He walked up and down, up and down, talking about the case and the threats against his life. I said to him,

"Oh, it was terrible, watching the poor fellow. I showed him threatening letters I had received. I told him they had threatened to kidnap my two little children, but that didn't seem to convince him."

The trial was adjourned Wednesday when Dennis Healy, principal witness for the government, fainted after three days' cross-examination by Ernecke's attorney.

When it resumed yesterday Healy was still too ill to testify.

Healy, the witness, had portrayed Ernecke, a native of Berlin and a member of the Bund, as one of the leaders in the alleged plot to overthrow the government, and had testified that the German had told him he would like to fight against "Jewish refugee Americans." Ernecke was in the New York National Guard.

Judge Campbell said yesterday the trial would continue Monday.

HERE YOU see Miriam Hopkins being a Southern spy in "Virginia City," exciting story of the Confederacy's daring attempt to run a huge shipment of gold from Nevada to Richmond to give new life to a dying nation. The picture, which co-stars Errol Flynn and Randolph Scott, is due at the Paramount and Fenway theaters next Thursday.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 13—Our old friend Harry Brandt of the Independent Theater Owners feels like talking again—but this time he's in a flattering mood. In place of picking 1939's ten "poison stars" at the box office (remember what a riot that selection caused?) he has turned Pollyanna and chosen stars who saved the box office last year.

He lists: Clark Gable, Bette Davis, Mickey Rooney, Ginger Rogers, Deanna Durbin, Tyrone Power, Spencer Tracy, Myrna Loy, James Stewart and Jean Arthur.

He's certain to get plenty of "yea man" votes picking Deanna so high on the roster. It was a disgrace that she was left off the Motion Picture Herald's "official" list.

Doesn't seem possible with the terrible war news in the headlines that England should be going ahead with movie plans. But Gabrial Pascal, George Bernard Shaw's favorite producer, has cabled Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., an offer to star in the bearded bard's "Major Barbara" and also in "The Doctor's Dilemma."

And if young Doug can tear himself away from the proud papa role he's playing in private life in Hollywood, he may accept. However, if things get more serious over there I can't help but think production must be curtailed so Doug may not have to make up his mind immediately.

Film Reveals Screen Secrets

"Northward Ho," a picture about a picture or, to be more explicit, a film short revealing the intricacies of making the spectacular production, "Northwest Passage," is now being featured on the South Station Theater screen program.

It is an interesting closeup on Hollywood production methods.

Boston Boys in Limelight When Shuberts' Show Opens

Two of the outstanding figures connected with "Keep Off the Grass," the new musical coming to the Shubert Theater April 29, are Boston boys. They are Ray Bolger and Jimmy McHugh, composer of the tunes.

Ray has not danced in Boston since his appearance here several seasons ago in "On Your Toes." Since that time he has been in Hollywood, but now he is under contract to the Messrs. Shubert, who are starring him in the new revue and who have plans for him for the next few seasons.

Jimmy McHugh, of course, like Mr. Bolger, is well known here. His last Boston show was "The Streets of Paris"; his last Hollywood assignment was writing the score of "Buck Benny Rides Again."

When Nan Rae and Maude Davis are seen at the Shubert Theater in "Keep Off the Grass," they will have entirely new material. Their famous act, "The Inquiring Reporter," has been dropped. "Folies Bergere," incidentally, closed in Philadelphia last week, thus releasing Rae and Davis.

Among the new Jimmy McHugh-Al Dubin songs in the forthcoming musical is a tropical tune called "Rhett Butler," a take-off on "Gone With the Wind." Another number is "A Little Tune, a Manhattan Moon." The number amusingly pokes fun at the craze for South American music.

PROVIDENCE GIVES GEORGE M. COHAN ROUSING WELCOME

His Vagabond Role Cheered

PROVIDENCE, April 13 — Amid cheers and a storm both on the street and in the theater, George M. Cohan opened here last night in his new play, "The Return of the Vagabond."

The applause was thundering; a capacity crowd greeting the only Cohan.

The old tavern scene looked much as it did years ago, but the play is all new.

Judge James F. Dooley, Raymond J. McMahon, Lieut. Governor James McManus and the entire General Assembly were among the fashionable audience.

George M. Cohan

Mr. Cohan was in good form, singing a little and joshing a great part of the evening. And he did a little jig for good measure.

Giving the star excellent support was a most capable cast. The latter included McKay Morris, Marie Louise Dana, Celeste Holm and Ed McNamara.

The new Cohan show is written for laughs and the goodly crowd laughed continuously.

After two thunderous curtain calls at the end of the play, news photographers' flashlights blazed and flowers in large profusion were lifted over the footlights.

George M. was too thrilled for words—he merely said, "Thanks." It was a thrilling night at a thrilling comedy.

THE GAYEST LARK of the waning legitimate season is promised on Monday night when George M. Cohan returns as author-manager-star of his own play at the Colonial Theater. The show is called "The Return of the Vagabond" and is described as a sequel to "The Tavern." Celeste Holm is importantly cast in the Cohanesque travesty.

Midgets on M. & P. Bills

The five M. & P. suburban theaters are offering the celebrated Hermine's Midgets as an added attraction to next week's regular double-feature bills. These are the 15 doll-size stars, who will be featured beginning next month at Morris Gest's Midget Village at the New York World's Fair.

They have their own swing band and they dance, sing, juggle and present a daring trapeze act. They will appear at both the matinee and evening performances at the following suburban theaters: Tomorrow, Egyptian Theater, Brighton; Monday, Jamaica Theater, Jamaica Plain; Tuesday, Wollaston Theater, Wollaston; Thursday, Codman Square Theater, Dorchester; Sunday (April 21), Allston Theater, Allston.

Drive-In Opens At Weymouth

The Drive-In Theater at Weymouth, New England's first open-air auto theater, will initiate its fifth consecutive season tonight at 8 o'clock with the showing of "East Side of Heaven," co-starring Bing Crosby and Joan Blondell with Baby Sandy and Mischa Auer. New shows will be presented weekly with changes of program on Saturday and Wednesday. Children under 10 will be admitted free.

The management of this popular theater also operates drive-ins at Saugus and Shrewsbury.

HURRY UP GIRLS . . . our eligible bachelors are being captured one by one, and in many cases by out-of-town girls . . .

At the Vincent Club show Isabella Grandin was confiding to friends that her brother Jack, Harvard '32 and prominent young sportsman, is engaged to Susanne Preston Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Edward Waring Wilson of Bryn Mawr, Pa. . . .

The bride-to-be's qualifications for becoming a prominent young Boston matron and daughter-in-law of the fashionable John L. Grandins of Groton and the Fenway, include education at exclusive Shipley and Brearley Schools and membership in the Philadelphia Junior League . . . She graduated from Bryn Mawr College last June and counts among her distinguished ancestry a former vice-president of the U. S. A., her great granduad, General John Breckenridge . . .

Jack (John L. Jr.,) prepped at Milton Academy and after graduating from Harvard continued his studies at the business school . . . His clubs include Delphic, Hasty Pudding and The Country Club, and like his famous sister, is a leader in the Groton Hunt Club . . .

DID YOU HEAR about the funny concidence of Harry Everetts of Hingham drawing the lucky number out of the basket at the Vincent show . . . and of all things, out of about a thousand slips of paper, picking his own? . . . Too bad he wasn't asked to perform this honor tonight when the prize is fifty gallons of gasolene which he would find more useful than the fancy beauty kit he drew . . . Since he was picking the numbers and drew his own he tore it up and the second time pulled out one which awarded the kit to Mrs. Dick Preston . . .

Margaret Fry to Entertain at Tea

ABOUT THIS time of year, with activities of the season's debs on the wane, and the Vincent Club show in which they have their fling as amateur show girls going into its last performances, everybody begins to think about the next year's debutantes . . .

This latest crop of social butterflies will emerge from the comparative seclusion of their homes and schools into the public eye in June, but in the meantime they are beginning to get a fair sample of the tasks in store for them as assistants at charity affairs . . .

Next Wednesday an attractive group of these girls, known as the 1940-41 debs, will be entertained at tea by Margaret Fry, to receive their instructions for assisting at the forthcoming benefit concert of the Metropolitan Singers . . .

Margie, who is relinquishing her title of "deb" to become a post deb, can draw on her various experiences in committee work this past winter to give the new debs some helpful tips on what's what . . . Among her guests will be Barbara Higginson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Higginson, Barsha Powers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Powers, Frances Whitney, daughter of Mrs. Burgess Whitney, Priscilla Ireland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Ireland, Virginia Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Grant, and Ann Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clarke . . .

Three Soloists on Program

ADDED TO THIS GROUP of girls who will play an important role in next season's social whirl will be Nancy Bernard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bernard, Janet Harwood, the Herbert E. Harwoods' young hopefuls, Alice Plummer, daughter of Mrs. Parsons Plummer, Betty Maynard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Howell Maynard, Jean Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Roberts, Constance Bradlee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bradlee, Jr., Deborah Law, the Alexander Laws' daughter, and Mary Coe, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Robert Wood Coe . . .

The concert of the Metropolitan Singers, to be held in Symphony Hall, April 24, will feature three soloists . . . Oscar Levant, pianist and musical whizz of Information Please, who will play a program of Gershwin music; Vladimir Zorin, eminent basso, and Marian Burroughs, talented violinist . . .

ATTRACTIVE Mrs. Harold G. Kern of Beacon st. basking in sunlight on the beach of the Whitman Hotel in Miami. She and Mr. Kern have just returned from a vacation at the popular winter resort.

Miss Avery Honored

Mrs. Frank Stewart and Mrs. Thomas H. Lanman co-chairmen of the committee which sponsors the Avery lectures for the Children's Hosptial, presided with their vice-chairman at a good luck luncheon for Miss Avery at the Copley-Plaza yesterday, following the last lecture of this season.

Head table guests included Mrs. Samuel Eliot in a modish navy and white dotted redingote outfit with a wreath of white flowers and navy veil trimming her sailor hat; Mrs. William E. Love And Marriage Needs Mental Probe

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

If it weren't for our two kids I'd take the next train to Reno and make an end of our marriage. My wife seems to be crazy about everything and everybody, outside of our home. After breakfast the dishes are piled in the sink, and she's off for the day, beds unmade, the house looking as if a cyclone had struck it.

Sometimes I get home from my office before she returns from her bridge and cocktail parties, and I find the children waiting on the porch unable to get in, cold and hungry. When I attempt to reason with her, she says: "You know what you can do."

I've entirely lost my affection I had for her and would as soon kiss a telegraph pole as the lady herself.

SO-CALLED HUSBAND.

This wife of yours sounds a little bit cracked to me, and I should insist, in your place, on having her consult a psychiatrist. If she's pronounced mentally sound, then for your children's sake you'd better take matters in hand, put them in a good school or see that they are properly cared for by some competent person. A woman who locks the door and goes off to bridge and cocktail parties, leaving her children out in the cold needs a little mental investigation.

Salad Time Is Here

By MARTHA LEE

Supper's back in style. Spring has brought back to family favor the "little meal" at night that's perhaps one hot dish—say soup—and a big bowl of salad from which to dive for seconds, and even thirds.

If you haven't a wooden salad bowl in your home, use one of china or glass or even one of your nest of mixing bowls. But "bowl" your salad—that's the way to get an amiable amalgamation of flavors; the toss together!

Add the easiest of desserts, some thin bread and butter or muffins, and pots of good coffee. Here are some bowl salads suited for main course appearance. Add them to your repertoire and be proud.

GREEN SALAD BOWL

2 cups shredded lettuce
1 cup chicory cut into small bits
4 tbsp. Roquefort cheese, crumbled
4 tbsp. grated raw carrot
½ cup grapefruit sections, cut in pieces
1 tbsp. chopped sweet pepper
French dressing

Blend ingredients, which have been drained and chilled, and place in salad bowl. Mix in French dressing. Toss lightly and serve from the bowl or on individual plates. Makes 4 servings.

SPRING SALAD BOWL

1 tsp. onion juice
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 cup sliced Brazil nuts
2 cups cottage cheese
Lettuce, romaine and watercress
Radishes
French dressing

Stir onion juice, Worcestershire sauce and one-half cup of sliced Brazil nuts into cheese. Pile in the center of a shallow salad bowl. Surround with salad greens and garnish with radishes. Sprinkle remaining nuts over cheese. Pour French dressing over greens just before serving. Makes eight servings.

ALL-IN-ONE SALAD BOWL

1 head lettuce
1 can string beans, drained
3 tomatoes
2 cups diced, cooked potatoes
1 cup flaked tuna fish
1 peeled purple onion, sliced
3 hard cooked eggs, sliced
½ cup mustard pickle
¾ cup cooking oil
¼ tsp. sugar
¼ cup vinegar
¼ tsp. salt
Few grains pepper

Break up the thoroughly washed lettuce, and arrange in the salad bowl. Arrange alternate layers of the string beans, tomatoes, cut in eighths, potatoes, fish, onions and eggs. Thoroughly toss the salad with a dressing made by beating together the remaining ingredients with a fork. Makes six servings.

BANANA FRUIT SALAD BOWL

Wash and dry thoroughly one or more varieties of fresh crisp greens and place in a salad bowl. Arrange long strips of ripe banana (yellow peel flecked with brown) attractively on the greens. Add a variety of other fruits such as orange and grapefruit sections, slices of avocado, thin slices of unpeeled apple, strips of fresh pineapple, whole berries or cherries. Serve with French dressing.

CABBAGE AND DATE TOSS

2 cups shredded cabbage
1 cup diced pineapple (fresh or canned)
12 (¼ pkg.) sliced dates
French dressing
Lettuce, shredded
Endive

Soak the cabbage in cold water until crisp. Drain thoroughly. Add the pineapple, dates, dressing and greens, and toss with two forks until well mixed. Serve cold. Makes six servings.

You Can Be Beautiful

Bright as Springtime

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU feel that somehow or other there's a brightness lacking in your springtime face . . . look around you, and see if everyone else isn't taking advantage of the brilliant new make-up . . . and leaving you behind, with a last-spring look!

For this is the season to toss away old make-up . . . which cannot vie with the softly brilliant new tones . . . not possibly!

We were never so aware of this as when we tried, all in one afternoon . . . four new, high style colors in lipstick, every one of them based on bright, bright red . . . yes, in one afternoon! And it was as gay as the final, climaxing cutburst in a rocket display on Fourth of July!

As if to celebrate the arrival of these new colors, the cosmetic house sponsoring them has put them on special sale for two weeks only . . . the tremendous, glittering incased jumbo lipstick, ordinarily $2, is to be $1!

It's honestly impossible to say which one we liked best . . . we wanted every one of them. One, a dazzle red, is perfect with greens and yellows, another, called red magic, is delicious with all blue and fuchsia tones, a coppery-tinged color is striking with grey and luggage, a deeper red with great depth is wonderful with navy and much white.

These lipsticks are famous for their silkiness and their indelibility. And the four colors we mention are only a few of many to choose from.

If you'd like to learn all about this $1 special on excitingly tinted new $2 jumbo lipsticks, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE SUCCESS of Thomas E. Dewey in the Republican Presidential preferential campaign in Nebraska, following a similar success in Wisconsin, is puzzling, not to say displeasing, to certain politicians and commentators.

Mr. Dewey is not popular with many Republican politicians.

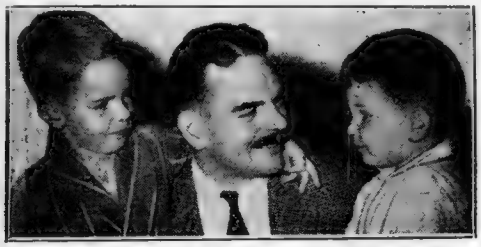
He has been vigorously, and often scurrilously, attacked and belittled by many syndicated commentators and columnists.

In fact, Mr. Dewey does not seem to be very popular with anybody, EXCEPT THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

Perhaps the American people intend to make Mr. Dewey the Republican Presidential candidate in spite of the politicians and commentators, and they might even decide to make him the next President.

At least the people of Wisconsin and Nebraska have shown a decided preference for Mr. Dewey over the most estimable and worthy Senator Vandenberg.

As is usually the case, the public is quite right about Mr. Dewey.



TOM DEWEY "TALKS IT OVER" WITH YOUNG SONS
People Like Him; What Politicans Think Matters Little

He is eminently qualified for the Presidency.

He is old enough, he is sufficiently informed, intelligent and experienced to direct the national destinies, if it pleases the American people to honor him by election as President.

Mr. Dewey is perhaps not all-knowing and all-wise in all things.

He is perhaps not capable of running the United States as a one-man government, and it is to be earnestly hoped he would not attempt to do so if he is elected.

The one-man idea of government is NOT AMERICAN.

The country does not expect a President to do everything.

It certainly should not want a President who THINKS he knows everything, or thinks his election is a mandate for arbitrary and autocratic rule of the country or for departure from the democratic processes and representative principles which have been conspicuously and characteristically AMERICAN for a century and a half.

The country should, and very likely does, want a President who will consult and respect the representatives of the people, and who will abide by and conduct himself WITHIN our democratic American institutions—and above all have abundant faith in the goodness and wiseness of those institutions and confidence in their RIGHTNESS.

Mr. Dewey gives every evidence of having THESE NECESSARY QUALIFICATIONS, and the people of Wisconsin and Nebraska at least are satisfied he does have them.

If the rest of the American people became similarly satisfied, it will not make so very much difference what the politicians think about Mr. Dewey.

It might be helpful if the politicians could come to realize what the American people think about THEM.

EVERY DOG OWNER in the land who reads the story of 14-year-old Jackie McKechnie of Boston and his devoted pet, Skippy, will shed a secret tear.

Crushed under the wheels of a hit-and-run automobile, Skippy used his last ounce of strength to show affection for his young master.

"After the accident, I lay down on the ground and put my face against Skippy's head," Jackie sobbingly told police.

"He whimpered at me. Then, he tried to lick my face and couldn't reach it, so I moved closer so he could. I said:

"'You'll be all right, Skippy, you'll be all right. I'll get you to the doctor.'

"And while I kept saying that, he looked right into my eyes and stopped breathing."

JACKIE McKECHNIE
Grieves for Skippy

Perhaps some kind reader will find a way to fill the great void in Jackie McKechnie's heart by giving him another Skippy.

Marbles

A SERIOUS game is marbles, and it's one that calls for skill . . . There's hardly any other game that gives you such a thrill . . . Some say it's wrong to play for "keeps," but wiser people say . . . that if you once learn how to lose, there's no harm in the play.

Without a whimper you must see your treasures disappear . . . that alley or the agate that you prized and held so dear . . . Yet if the winner boasts and struts, and tries to rub it in . . . he proves himself no sportsman, and of what use then to win?

In after life the world will ask, though starward be your aim . . . not "Did you win or lose, my lad?" but "Did you play the game?"

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

ON THE TRAIN, enroute Kansas City to Fort Smith, Ark., April 13—We left the sudden mid-winter that we brought to Denver Thursday, and found ourselves yesterday morning in a fairly springlike Kansas City, Missouri.

Though it is none too warm, everyone assured us in Denver that an April blizzard was unusual, but even in New York state I have come to look upon such things as quite possible freaks in the weather.

I could quite well believe the young radio man who told me that a few days ago he was sitting in the sun in Denver with a sports shirt on.

SOMEHOW I GOT myself tangled up with the various radio companies Thursday and, before the day was over, I had spoken three times to the people in Denver over various stations, so I think they must have been a little weary of hearing my voice.

Quite a number of good Democrats, headed by Mr. Marsh, the Democratic national committeeman, came in to greet me. I appreciated the governor taking the time to come and I was very glad to see our old friend, ex-Governor Sweet.

I was sorry not to find Miss Josephine Roche in Denver, but

MRS RAYMOND MASSEY
Mrs. Roosevelt Enjoyed Chat

was glad to see the head of the local young Democrats, and particularly pleased to have one of my young friends, who is traveling through the country, drop in for lunch with us.

We found that Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Massey were in Denver on tour with "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." They came in for a few minutes' talk before they had to be on their way.

I am particularly happy to have Mr. Massey touring the country in this play, because Mr. Massey's performance, with the excellent support given by the rest of the company and the very beautiful writing in the play itself, is an experience which as many Americans as possible should enjoy.

By the time we took the train again in the afternoon, the snow had stopped and, cold as it was, quite a number of children with a few adults, came to the station in Limon, Colorado, to greet me. One enthusiastic lady reminded me that my husband and I had been there in 1920 for nearly an hour.

YESTERDAY MORNING, in Kansas City, a young girl who was for some time a patient in Warm Springs, Ga., came to the station with her mother to see me. She is very much upset because she has not been able to find a college within her means where it would be possible for a crippled youngster on crutches, to attend and get the proper assistance.

Her solution would be a special college for crippled children, but I feel that the question should be studied a little more carefully and that facilities should be provided in state universities, so that handicapped young people may obtain college educations at the least possible expense but in normal surroundings.

We are now on our way to Fort Smith, Arkansas. Then a day flight to Chicago and a few busy hours there.

A EUROPEAN married 82 women on different occasions. He must have met a lot of interesting people. His idea was to rob his trusting brides, and he had robbed 81 and murdered some of them before the police caught up with him. Women are always boasting of their "intuition." How is it that the "intuition" of all these females didn't tell them this "great lover" was naught but a crook and a murderer? Or when love flies into a woman's window can it be that her "intuition" flies out of the door?

IS ONE MINUTE or a minute and half too long for a kiss to last? Let one of the kiddies hold the watch and try this lengthy kiss out with your matrimonial companion. If you are not married, perhaps your secretary will act as the kiss recipient in the interests of scientific discussion. But, all fooling aside, when Ogla Nethersole, in the play "Sappho" in 1904, kissed her leading man and held the kiss for a minute and a half, she was arrested. The police said the kiss was too long for respectability.

"DRIVE A BARGAIN" is the slogan of a used car merchant. Not bad. G. Herb Palin made a business of originating slogans. One was "Safety First" . . . A sobriety test in Woking, Eng., for suspected drunks is repeating three times this sentence: "The shells she sails were seashore shells, I'm sure" . . . It is being said that dreams are inherited; that you see sometimes in your sleep things your ancestors saw during their lives.

FEMININE INFLUENCE in men's wear seems to be gaining ground. "Men! Have that casual, devil-may-care look, wear this dashing hat of Danube Blue," says a current advertisement. It probably won't be long now before we shall be reading: "MEN, BE GLAMOROUS! COMBINE THIS DASHING HAT OF DANUBE BLUE, WITH A DRAMATIC FADING SUNSET COLORED TIE, AN EGG BLUE SHIRT AND ONE OF OUR AMUSING TWO PANTS SUITS."

THE IDEA of all red-headed waitresses in a restaurant, recently adopted by a Manhattan proprietor, originated in Victoria, B. C. . . . The British Columbia waitresses, however, are, as they proudly claim, all "natural redheads." . . . An ad from the classified department of a newspaper reads: "To rent—Lawyer's suite—good library—recreation room." A "recreation room" in an attorney's office is a new one to me. What is it used for? Maybe for the children to play in while Mama is in talking to the lawyers about her divorce suit.

FRANZ SCHOLZ, who wrote "Two Hearts in Three-Quarter Time," changed his name to Francis Spencer, when he became an American citizen. He wanted the name Scholz buried with the ugly memories he had of the conditions which had brought him to this country . . . Billy Wilder, who wrote "Ninotchka," opposed Scholz's name changing, and told him that his name should be perpetuated . . . "No," Spencer insisted. "I prefer to be Francis Spencer, and Franz Scholz will be forgotten" . . . "He won't be," Wilder informed. "When I become an American citizen next month, I'll have the right to select any name I want. I'm changing my name to Franz Scholz."

PROVIDENCE "AFTER DARK" assumes an unusual state of liveliness with the coming of the gee-gees to Narragansett Park . . . The vanguard of horsemen has arrived already . . . Barns are filling slowly, though, and it's the same old story each season—a last-minute rush . . . The closing of Tropical Park was the signal for a mass shipment of thoroughbreds to 'Gansett . . . Natives become aware of the nearness of opening day by the number of "funny hats"—the wide-brimmed number with the shoe-string band . . . The "hardboots" (from Kentucky) started this vogue in fedoras . . . But it "caught on" locally.

EXPLANATION OF THE HATTERS is that there are as many "race-struck" youths among the males as their are "stage-struck" kids among the females . . . The racing population's most benign effect is felt by the hotels, restaurants and "juke-joints" of Providence and environs . . . One of the best hotels has "sold out" all its suites . . . The excellent Providence Biltmore attracts the wealthier race-trade, and the boom in that hostelry is one of real proportions.

AL JAHNS AND HIS ORCHESTRA is the attraction at the Biltmore . . . Leader Jahns alternates between Boston and Providence in a year 'round routine which promises security for the band for several seasons to come . . . The Jahns unit is typical of a certain brand of band that is really the backbone of the profession—and the musicians' union . . . These boys are too sensible to lose themselves in the mirage known as "the big-time" . . . It costs between $20,000 and $50,000 to develop an outfit of 14 to 20 men to the point where "national recognition" begins to pay-off in six figures.

WHEN ONE OF THESE MIRACLES happens, it is generally the leader, the agent or manager, and the arrangers who benefit most . . . Most of the privates in the unit—who were good enough to face their music-stands night after night in the gruelling drive to the top—are replaced by "stars" . . . You'd be surprised at the "turnover" of men in the musical "big time" . . . The leader, of course, is secure because advertising has centered around his name . . . Even when an orchestra "clicks," the increase in wages for the men is not too spectacular.

THE CAST OF GEORGE M. COHAN'S "The Return of the Vagabond" regards the history of George's costume in the play as a good omen . . . Two years ago, the Cohan warehouse in Manhattan was cleaned out . . . Properties, (including a lot of valuable furniture), costumes and scenery from such shows as "Little Nelly Kelly," "The Marry Malones," "The O'Brien Girl," "Billy," "Gambling," "The Song and Dance Man," 'Pigeons and People" were stacked on trucks and sold for the price of kindling wood . . . But Jimmy Troup, who has managed Cohan attractions for 20 years, decided to salvage the famous costume Mr. Cohan wore in his favorite play, "The Tavern."

BRENDA MARSHALL IN BRENT FILM

By Louella O. Parsons

George Brent

HOLLYWOOD, April 13—I give up about the Ann Sheridan-George Brent romance. One minute I hear it is studio promoted and next I hear that the oomph girl has gone hook, line and sinker for the handsome George. At any rate both are in Palm Springs and George remains there until he is brought back by the studio to play the lead in "Broadway Lawyer." Brenda Marshall, who is making great strides at Warners, will be co-starred with George.

The rumor that Constance Bennett was to be teamed with a good-looking Irishman was denied by Connie herself, but I hear that she will have an announcement to make very shortly about another Hollywood movie. Apparently her New York movies were a lot of unconfirmed chit-chat, just as was the Ben Hecht and George Jessel picture deal. Certainly Mayor LaGuardia hasn't done anything about New York movies as far as I was able to learn while I was East.

MARLENE DIETRICH was in the Jack Warner party and divided her attentions between Tim Durant and Eric Remarque; George S. TWO-MINUTE STORY

"AND THEN the green-eyed panther slowly advanced, while I held my breath, not daring to move."

Old Jud Allen was in the midst of his famous hair-raising stories, when the door of "Pop's Grocery Store" swung open, ushering in Bill Malone, one of the Saturday night gang that frequented "Pop's" to listen to Old Jud.

"Hey, Fellas! You ought to see——" but he was cut off by impatient moans and dissatisfied grunts from the gang.

Old Jud puffed contentedly on his old corn-cob, full of pride and confidence.

"HE CROUCHED low, ready for the fatal lunge when I'd be but a mass of bloody fragments. I held my little hunting knife, the one weapon of protection against this ferocious, man-eating beast, securely in my hand, waiting to defend myself as best I could. Why didn't he jump? Why was he torturing me like this—glaring at me, his mouth watering for the fresh, red blood of a human?"

Just then the still air was pierced with a hideous cackle and a weird white-clad figure advanced on the terror stricken group. Cries of bewilderment and fear mingled with the sickening laugh.

"AW, WHAT'S the matter, fellas? Going soft?" and the white-clad form unveiled itself, revealing Bill.

"Don'tcha think this is a snappy outfit for the masquerade ball tonight? Hey! What do you think, Jud?"

But Jud wasn't listening—he lay in a small heap on the floor. Old Jud had fainted!!

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

YOU'RE HURT. There's that deal you didn't put over. There's that humiliation you can't forget. And that broken dream. And that grave you're still kneeling beside, after all these years.

I know, because I've failed too.

And I too have borne the scarlet welts of humiliation . . . and seen my dreams go by . . . and torn myself with terrible effort from a slender grave.

You know. And I know. And if we but have the sense to see it, there is God's answer—and His compensation—for all we have endured.

There is the reason for pain—and the blessing for those who dare take it.

FOR PAIN IS THE WAY TO "KNOWING." IT IS OUR ONLY COMMON LANGUAGE. IT IS THE GATEWAY INTO EACH OTHER'S SOUL.

DO YOU REMEMBER that Last Supper which was the Passover of the Jews, at which Christ broke the bread in token of His everlasting bond with the hearts of men? There are sacred rituals that symbolize that eternal bond. There are also sorrows, which are in reality an enduring token of our everlasting community with other lives.

Think of your tears that way, my dear.

Think of your hunger and heartbreak as bitter bread to be eaten with all other souls.

Do not let yourself be strangled by the terrible stupidity of self pity.

Do not stagnate in the thought that your agony is greater than any one else's.

OPEN YOUR MIND AND YOUR HEART TO THE REALIZATION THAT SORROW IS GOD'S WAY OF GROWING UP . . . AND GROWING NEAR TO ALL THE REST OF THE WORLD.

By SCOTT RYALL

SAN YSIDRO road camp is the only outfit I ever knew that elected itself a queen without havin' a woman on the place an' before they even knowed they did it. It come about from a guy needin' a job; a guy named Jake.

After Jake hit the road gang, I guess almost anything can happen. He come hikin up the new road we was buildin' across San Ysidro ridge, in the dust of four big, black mules.

There was three of us workin' near the boss, so we heard him hit up for a job. The boss chewed his cigar, looked him and the critters up an' down. All the time the mule skinner stood watchin' him. He looked right in the boss' eye, not starin' at dirt like most guys'll do, as if they was ashamed they didn't have a job.

"Nine bucks a day!"

We knew he meant nine bucks for the whole outfit. I think Jake did, too. But he didn't bat an eyelash.

"How mooch for da mules?" he asks, thick an' furrin.

The boss looked surprised an' sore. But them was big mules, an' two of his tractors had busted just recent.

"Ten for the outfit an' feed," he says, "take it or leave it. What's your name?" It was easy to see he meant for Jake to take it.

After a minute, when everything was still but the breathin' of the mules, he give his name: Jake-somethin'.

"And the feed got to be good," he said.

"What d'ye expect?" the boss snaps.

It was easy to see Jake an' the boss wasn't gonna be palsy-walsy.

Then Pinky, the timekeeper, come an' the boss introduced them, then got off with Pinky like he was glad to get away from Jake for a minute.

I had to take two barrels of water up to the head gang. I wanted to stick around an' see the fun, knowin' somethin' would happen between Jake an' the boss.

It did, but not until later than I thought. Either Jake kept out of the boss' way or the opposite. Before I got back, though, a funny thing happened.

Jake brung his mules into the corral. Them mules didn't seem friendly even to Jake, but they respected him.

I learned one of 'em pulled his lips back over yeller teeth an' went like he was gonna bit Jake's head off. Jake just looked at him. He didn't say nothin' that the boys could tell. But the mule backed up like he was hit with a bullwhip.

ALFALFA HAY!

When I got back, Jake was watchin' his mules eatin' an' lookin' pretty sore. He took up a handful of oats, lopked at 'em close, then threw 'em down an' spit on 'em.

After dinner he cornered the boss in the cook shack. Jake was sayin' somethin', both with his mouth an' hands. The boss' face got red an' suddenly he barks:

"Ye don't say! An' how about eastern oysters on the half? Or cavvyar? Or troofles?"

Jake said savage, "Meester, them mules mean more to me than you do," an' he walked out of the shack.

The boss thumbed Pinkey to come outside an' there was a general rush to get in hearin' distance.

"Do you know what that guy just asked me? No; he didn't ask. He told me! I gotto get alfalfa hay from Californy an' sound Texas oats. An' do you know what that's for?"

Pinkey kept quiet, but his eyes twinkled. Pinkey was a college grad; a silver engineer, I think.

"For mules!" explodes the boss like a spot charge of powder.

"Then," Pinkey says, "we had better get some California alfalfa and—"

"Like h—— we do! They'll eat what's in camp!"

Pinky shrugged his shoulders, pulled out a notebook and made a few scratches. He didn't say no more about Jake. The boss looked at Pinky, then at the note'book, then at Pinky again.

"Ain't you jumpin' to conclusions that this guy'll quit?"

"No, I'm not. You saw that team of his working. Well, nothing less than a tractor will take their place. Now you've got them for $10 a day. It'll probably cost you $10 to rent a tractor and you'll need a man to run it."

"Listen, Wendel," the boss says and we could tell how mad he was on account of using Pinky's right name, "are you tellin' me I gotta get Californy oats an' Texas hay for a lousy lot o' mules?"

"Sure. Anyway, it's Texas oats and California hay. If I can't get a tractor, it'll take two teams. You wouldn't find a man to work four-an' whiter. Their noses spread an' their ears laid back.

The boss was talkin' soft, a steady stream of cussin'. When he got close enough, he took told of the near one's mane like he would grab a shovel. That mule's teeth almost caught the boss' shoulder.

The whip in the boss' hand moved just as fast. He caught the mule across the face with the butt end. There was a wheezin' snort, like the critter pulled his breath or blew it. Then he went up on his hind legs, twice as high as the boss, hoofs swingin', lips back over his yeller teeth.

I don't make no secret of it. I

He shook his head and sai somethin' snappy. They stoo lookin' at him a second more; ea back; puffin.' "I could handle 'em myself!"

Pinky grinned. "You could, except for one thing. Jake means more to those mules than you do."

"SORTA SPOOKY"

The boss looked at Pinky like he was gonna bite. I know he was thinkin' of Jake in the cook shanty tellin' him. "Them mules mean more to me than you do!"

When he spoke again, his words was cold; snappin's like ice on the water bucket, come winter.

"Wendel, you boys are workin' a graft on me. An' I'm gonna show you up. Come along."

Pinky followed him over to the corral. Jake was whittlin' a stick. He looked at Pinky an' the boss then went on whittlin'. Even when the boss went over the corral fence an' Pinky come up to sit beside him, he went on whittlin'. It was sorta spooky.

"I'll show you what graft there is to mules!" the boss growls an' picks up a halter an' whip.

He went across the corral, steppin' easy an' sorta springy. The four mules looked at him. Each step he made, their eyes got bigger in-hand like Jake in a blue moon."

woulda cut an' run. The boss stayed almost under the critter an' laid on the whip.

Jake quit whittlin'. By that time a half dozen of us was on the corral rail. I was near enough to hear Jake's breath comin' hard. His lips pulled back, too, an' he was holdin' his knife like he wasn't thinkin' exactly of whittlin'.

The fightin' mule didn't leave off a nickel's worth. The boss come on an' the mule come on. I don't know how it woulda come out but for the other mules.

They started wheelin' an' snortin' an' lookin' for a chance to mix in. The boss was beginnin' to take a swipe at them, too, when they tried for a nip. Then the rump of one of 'em caught him off balance an' he went down like a stuffed dummy.

It was just seconds to go. The mules looked like they suspected a trick. The boss rolled, quick. I seen his face. White, an' really scared. Just when the mules seemed to get the idea and start for the tromplin,' me an' two others took a chance an' went down into the corral.

But we couldn't 've begun to reach them mules before they hit if it hadn't been for Jake. Jake says somethin' quick. The mules

HOW CAR OF FUTURE MAY LOOK

CAR OF TOMORROW IN NEW BUICK DESIGN

FLINT, Mich., April 13—Experimental design in automobiles cove, style testing as well as trial of innumerable mechanical innovations which may or may not become part of the equipment of the car of the future.

A recognized leader in design, Buick has achieved this position through constant inquiry into the future, but at the same time has maintained its world-wide reputation for dependable and durable design and construction through refusing to adopt, either from a style or mechanical standpoint, features which are not practical and thoroughly tested in service.

The extent to which designers go to achieve this goal is illustrated in an extremely modern experimental car recently completed by Harley J. Earl, chief of the styling section of General Motors, in cooperation with Buick engineers. To the style-minded and to the average motorists accustomed to continued progress in automotive streamlining, it is the last word in smart automobilea.

To the Buick and General Motors engineers and stylists, it is a laboratory model in which many advanced ideas of design are incorporated solely for the purpose of experimentation and study.

The streamlined body of the convertible coupe type is mounted on a special Buick chassis of dimensions not used in current production. Emphasizing the modern tendency to reduce over-all height and general close to the road appearance, the new Buick experimental car goes beyond anything yet developed outside of racing cars in this respect.

The wheels are smaller and carry specially made 13-inch tires resulting in lowering the entire car. To provide maximum braking efficiency with smaller wheels and brake drums, special airplane brakes of Sirocco air cooled type are used.

The experimental body carries numerous advance features. Heavy wind-stream bar bumpers. The alligator type hood is one piece from the grille to cowl. Fenders are fully streamlined with front fenders housing retractable headlamps concealed behind fender "doors."

Length of fenders accentuate the low streamlined effect. Door windows are raised and lowered by electric regulators controlled from the instrument panel.

Unique on the experimental car is the complete concealment of the convertible top under the deck immediately behind the driver. The deck and top operate automatically controlled by a push button in the drivers compartment.

Fast Drivers Real Hazard Of Highways, Survey Shows

NEW HAVEN, April 13—Fast drivers have been definitely proved to be a real road hazard, as the result of a correlated study of motorists' speeds and a check of their previous accident records. Fifty-six and one-tenth per cent of a group of motorists who drove at speeds of more than 50 miles per hour were found in this first study of its kind to have been involved in accidents, and only 39.8 per cent of those who drove at speeds of 35 to 45 miles per hour ever had had accidents.

These new accident facts were revealed by Dr. Harry R. DeSilva, director of the Yale University-Esso Safety Foundation's Cooperative Driver Research, which is obtaining much needed material on the human element in automobile accidents.

In this connection, last fall Dr. DeSilva clocked some 2000 motorists on a Connecticut highway, unknown to the drivers themselves, and found out how fast drivers of different age-groups, owners, non-owners and others drove.

DeSilva then selected the 82 operators who had driven more than 50 miles per hour and the 372 who had driven between 35 and 45 miles per hour and studied their accident records, which were on file with the Connecticut Motor Vehicle Bureau.

The fast drivers were not only involved in more accidents, but had also been charged with more motor vehicle law violations than the slower drivers.

In the fast driving group the accident rate was 137.8 accidents per 100 drivers, against 66.8 accidents per 100 drivers in the other group; 40.2 per cent of the fast drivers had violated motor vehicle laws; but only 24.5 per cent of the normal speed drivers had done so, Dr. DeSilva said.

Give Your Car Spring Checkup

Even if you are inclined to have spring fever, don't let it happen to your car, advises Harry B. Liggett, Boston Studebaker distributor.

Just a little attention now will put your car in shape to deliver better service and more economical mileage when spring breezes whisper an invitation to get out and go places, he says.

First step in spring reconditioning recommended by Mr. Liggett is to thoroughly flush out the anti-freeze and give the cooling system a good cleaning. Next, check the water pump, hose connections and fan belt to see if winter driving has injured them in any way.

And don't forget to change the oil and give the car a thorough lubrication. Mr. Liggett reminds car owners, then lights, windshield wiper and shock absorbers should be checked by factory trained men and, if necessary, overhauled.

And while the driver steps out in gay spring attire, it is only fitting and just that the car should look as sprightly. Mr. Liggett believes. Under that winter grime which may have accumulated are several coats of paint. A little washing and polishing will reveal this bright and shiny surface in all its glory.

New Goodrich Tire Is Silent

AKRON, April 13—A new passenger-car tire created to provide unusual standards of quiet cushioning and long wear with custom-built appearance is being introduced by The B. F. Goodrich Co., it was announced here today by James J. Newman, vice-president in charge of the tire division.

To be known as the Goodrich Patrician Silvertown, the new tire has been designed, Mr. Newman said, for the discriminating group of motorists who prefer a de luxe tire that is silent in operation and embodies the latest trends in styling which are conspicuous in the new automobiles in all price classes.

"Surveys of buying habits clearly reveal the American public's increasing demand for utilitarian products, be they cars, tires, refrigerators or homes, that have added to their service factor conspicuous destrability in terms of distinction of design," Mr. Newman said.

Chevrolet Sales Rise

DETROIT, April 13—Chevrolet dealers' retail sales of new cars and trucks in the month of March totalled 106,014, an increase of 41.1 per cent over the February record, it was announced today at the company headquarters here.

Sales for the month were the highest recorded since April, 1937, comparison of the figures showed.

Sales for the first quarter, the report showed, were 254,751, as compared with 191,607 in the first quarter of 1939. The increase amounts to 33.0 per cent.

Buick Gets New Home in Quincy

One of the largest automotive projects in Quincy in recent years, and the greatest development in the immediate Hancock and Adams st. district, will be the new home of the South Shore Buick Co.

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin of Quincy, in the presence of Manager Tom Johnson and many guests, dedicated the beginning work of the building by removing the first spadeful of earth for the new structure.

An average of 100 men will be engaged in the actual construction. The new site, located almost diagonally across from the present Buick building, has a frontage of 337 feet on Adams st., is in the heart of Quincy's newest and growing business section.

George Ernest Robinson of Boston is the architect and R. R. Jacobucci, Inc., of Quincy the general contractor. The plans of the architect indicate that the Colonial design of the Buick building, beautiful both in detail and proportion, will maintain and further enhance the traditional beauty of historic Quincy. The architectural features will conform to the public's ideas of how that region should be treated.

Ford Truck Sales Up 41 P. C. in March

DEARBORN, Mich., April 13—Rising 41 per cent over the preceding month, retail sales of Ford trucks and commercial cars during March were the heaviest for any March since 1929 with the sole exception of 1937, it was announced today at the home office of the Ford Motor Co.

Officials of the company believe that the remarkable increase for the final period portends one of the most active spring sales seasons on record.

WPA Music Project Plans 95 Concerts

Units of the Massachusetts WPA Music Project will present 95 concerts in 38 local communities throughout the state next week.

Many of these will be in public schools as a part of the course in music appreciation, while others will be in hospitals and institutions as a part of the project's program in spreading cheer among the shut-ins.

Cold Grips East, West Swelters

Winter paid a belated visit to virtually all of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains today, carrying temperatures below freezing almost to the Gulf Coast as a premature heat wave brought 100-degree weather to the Southern Pacific slope.

At least seven deaths were charged to the wintery flareback that spread from one to five inches of snow from Indiana to North Carolina. Farm experts feared young cotton plants and fruit trees suffered. Grain crops likewise were damaged in many areas.

Meantime, warmer weather to the northwest indicated normal spring temperatures were on the way back and Weather Forecaster J. R. Lloyd at Kansas City ventured the prediction they would remain this time.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

IT HAS BECOME highly fashionable for the young men of the press to refer to the B. A. A. Marathon that takes place once more on Patriots' Day as the height of athletic madness. It has been pointed out by this writer in the past that a poodle dog could probably beat the field of more than 150 runners from Hopkinton to Boston if he had an incentive to cover the 26-mile course.

The average dog would see so many interesting things between Hopkinton and Boston that he would finish out of the money as usually happens with thoroughbred race horses which I bet on.

I believe Marathon running has some justification. Otherwise the B. A. A. would never have been able to have conducted this classic so successful over the years. The race a week from today will be the forty-fourth annual affair. That of itself proves the long grind has an attraction to runners and also to the public.

There is something about Marathon running that is incurable. Back in 1912 when an American team was getting ready to sail for the Olympic games, I was a young reporter just out of the High School of Commerce. The sporting editor suggested that I go out to Melrose to interview Clarence DeMar, winner of the B. A. A. Marathon, about what he thought he would do in the Olympics.

I talked with DeMar in the living room of his home which was well filled with various cups which he had won in competition.

"After I return from the Olympic games, I shall quit Marathon running," said DeMar. "It is a tough sport, and I think I have gained all the glory at it that is possible for one person to get."

Twenty-eight years later DeMar is preparing to start in another Marathon. He now finds that participating in a Marathon race is as necessary to his happiness as sleep and food.

Leslie Pawson Gets Fun Out of Running

LESLIE PAWSON will also be at the starting line on next Friday and is confident he will gain another Marathon victory.

I like the way Pawson has prepared himself for the big race. He has been taking part in locat road races, and has piled up a fine record this spring. As Dave Wilson would say if he were handicapping the Marathon, "Pawson is razor sharp, and ready for a top performance."

Tarzan Brown will also bid for another Marathon victory. Hap Fenelon of the Westerly, R. I. Fenelons will come to town to root for a Tarzan victory. Col. Dave Egan insists that Tom Kanaly supply Hap with a number so that he can take his place with the runners if he wishes.

The greatest thing about the B. A. A. Marathon is the fact it will be witnessed by 200,000 to 300,000 persons if the weather man shows a little consideration. From a question of local public appeal there isn't any sports event to compare with the Unicorn club's classic.

When the B. A. A. experienced financial difficulties and it was found necessary to sell the clubhouse on Exeter st., Walter Brown, Dazzy Wadsworth, Tom Kanaly, Ray Archer and other loyal members of the B. A. A. secured club quarters across the street at the Hotel Lenox. It was decided that the B. A. A. would carry on with its indoor track meet at the Garden, and with the Marathon. The expense for promoting the Marathon is usually between $800 and $1000. The profit on the B. A. A. games at the Garden takes care of this charge.

Rain or shine I'll be numbered among those who will watch the Marathon. Of course it is a daffy race, but I think most Americans have enough daffiness in their makeup to like the B. A. A. show.

Sox And Bees Ready for Season's Pre-View

THE RED SOX and Bees are ready for their baseball pre-view in the city series. There will be games at Fenway Park today and tomorrow.

"So this is Iceland?" said Casey Stengel when he reached Boston to find a cold, pelting rain.

"It may warm up by the Fourth of July," suggested one of the newspaper reporters.

Red Sox and Bees experienced cold weather once they left Florida, while in the early stages of their Spring training at Sarasota and at Bradenton the weather at times was cold.

It should be a good Spring for those pitchers who like cold weather.

Random Shots at Target

ONE OF THE finest things at the recent national amateur boxing championships was the presentation of a watch to Billy Hamilton, boxing editor of the Boston Herald, on his 60th birthday which came on the final day of the tournament . . . The presentation was made by the boxing committee of the national A. A. U. which praised Billy for his splendid contributions to amateur boxing down through the years.

I have always liked to read Hamilton's stories of boxing bouts . . . He has the art of telling what happened in a manner that makes one feel he has a ringside seat . . . May Billy have many more birthday parties.

BEES, SOX SNOWED OUT; TILT AT FENS TOMORROW

SERIOUS—Dom DiMaggio seems a bit on the solemn side as he hangs his clothes after landing in Hub for the first time.

"IT'S GOOD TO BE HOME"—Dom DiMaggio relaxes happily, after finding Boston's welcome to him and the other Red Sox a very warm reception indeed. Dom was slated to make his official bow this afternoon at Fenway against the Bees.

By HERB FINNEGAN

Old Man Winter, who has been dogging the trail of the toughest New Englanders for the past five months, took his wrath out on the Red Sox and Bees, setting the scene with a bit of rain and snow.

As a result, the scheduled game between the Bees and Red Sox was called off.

Players of both teams were chafing at the bit, anxious to go

In Dixie Land games, both clubs were 2 all, and but for the edict of the weatherman, all would be settled.

However, fair skies and warm winds are the predictions for tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be an interesting afternoon for Boston fans, for the Sox were starting Dominic DiMaggio in right field, and it was the first chance local fandom had of seeing the younger brother of Joe in action.

HITTING HARD

"He's a better hitter than you think," said Joe Cronin on the morning of the game, but he was reiterating only the statements of everyone else who had seen the Japanese schoolboy in action.

Small, yes. But he hits well, and he's the slickest fielder, thrower and base runner Boston has seen in many a moon.

Dom injured his right ankle against the Reds at Tampa, Fla., March 10, and has been sporadic

Jake Powell On the Mend

ASHLAND, Ky., April 13 (AP)—Jake Powell, New York Yankee outfielder, critically injured Wednesday in an exhibition game here, was reported "somewhat improved" today.

Dr. C. B. Daniels, who has attended the outfielder since he crashed into a steel fence in the Yankee's game with Brooklyn, said Powell "was still a sick man."

Dr. Glen Spruling, Louisville brain specialist, who examined the ballplayer announced Powell is suffering from a "severe brain concussion." Previously it was thought he had a fractured skull.

Spruling said Powell will be unable to play ball for several weeks.

YANKS, DODGERS IDLE

NEW YORK, April 13 (INS)—The New York Yankees-Brooklyn Dodgers exhibition game was cancelled today because of cold weather. Cancellation of games yesterday and today cost the Yanks and Dodgers at least $25,000.

GAME OFF

CHICAGO, April 13 (INS)—For the second day in a row cold weather today resulted in cancellation of the opening Chicago game in the White Sox-Cubs exhibition series which was scheduled for Wrigley Field.

PROS ROLL

Pin Tourney Ends Tonight

By PINFALL

The fifth annual American-Record-Advertiser Diamond Medal Bowling Championships pass into a candlepin history tonight at midnight under a chapter labeled the greatest New England tourney ever held.

Never before in the five year background of this indoor classic has there been keener competition, as many entrants or as great interest.

Night after night, strangers who had never before visited the spacious Huntington Club were jammed rows deep watching standouts in the amateur and professional classes pit their skill against the tricky maples.

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED

Past crowds, though, will pale in significance to the turnout that will be on hand tonight.

With the greatest professional keglers in the country competing for the open singles championship, the chances are better than even that director Jack Stafford will have to close the doors early in the evening.

This will not be done as long as there is room but if the crowd goes beyond handling proportions, a halt will be called.

The singles event will see one of the greatest arrays of candlepin talent ever gathered under roof step up to the foul line.

HITTING ON HIGH

Nicl Paye of Appanaug, R. I., who won the event last year with a 1099 high for 10 strings is the defending champion, and he is out to repeat. Proof that Paye is right up on his game came last week when he and his partner, Art Pasquale, rolled 1185 in open doubles to set a new world's record.

Despite the fact that Paye is fit and ready, the odds against his repeating for any field which has standouts such as Paul Poehler, Joe Bonigili, Francis Chiminello, Billy Butte and others who hold more records than Clarence DeMar has medals, is 1 to 10 at least.

* * *

The field in the open singles is so great that there will be an elimination and the final roll-off will take place next Saturday night when the prizes are awarded all other champions will be determined tonight . . . the keglers in the open singles will pay a five dollar entry fee plus the cost of their bowling . . . all entry money will come back in the form of prizes.

DAN DONOVAN NAT WALDMAN BILL McDONALD

WAIT FINAL TEST—Dan Donovan of Charlestown, left, and Nat Waldman of Dorchester, center, discuss their chances in big open division battle tonight at Huntington Alleys as Judge Bill McDonald, seated, checks their scores. Donovan and Waldman, who paired in the doubles, are on their own tonight in the open competition. Event climaxes Boston American-Record-Sunday Advertiser Grand Candlepin classic, top bowling tournament of the year in the East.

EYES BIG MONEY—Roy Green of Charlestown, City Hall worker, tunes up for tonight's open singles in the Grand Candlepin tournament windup. Roy and the other open event keglers are battling for big cash awards made up from their entry fees.

Flies From Chicago for Bowlaway

One of the greatest figures in the bowling world will fly to Boston today from Chicago to witness the final night of the American-Record-Advertiser Diamond Medal Championships at the Huntington Club.

Robert F. Bensinger, president of the Brunswick-Balke-Collander Company, the largest bowling manufacturers in the world, will arrive at the East Boston airport late this afternoon and attend the tourney with Sidney Meyers, another executive in the firm.

There is a possibility that Mr. Bensinger may have the pleasure of personally congratulating Charles F. Shaw, his New England manager, on winning the All-Events Championship. Shaw is leading at present and it is doubtful whether anybody can top his nine-string high by closing time tonight.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT FOR NATS

Washington Acquires Dodgers' Castoff

WASHINGTON—The Senators are hoping history repeats. A few years ago the Brooklyn Dodgers turned loose Dutch Leonard, who came to Washington and became a 20-game winner. Now the Nats have acquired Al Hollingsworth, another hurler the Dodgers couldn't see.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky.—Manager Frankie Frish of the Pittsburgh Pirates has disclosed neither Long John Gee, the $75,000 rookie, nor Big Russ Bauers figures in his pitching plans. He named Bob Klinger, Max Butcher, Mace Brown, Dan MacFayden and Joe Bowman as his starting hurlers with Truett Sewell, John Lanning, Dick Lanahan and Oadis Swigart assigned to relief. Southpaw Ken Heintzelman, he said, will be farmed out.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—They've got a little matter of a city series to settle on foreign soil, but Connie Mack and Doc Prothro have their sights fastened on Tuesday's openers and announced their starting pitchers today. For the Athletics it will be Lefty Lovill (Chubby) Dean against the New York Yankees while the Phillies will start either Kirby Higbe or Hugh Mulcahy against the Giants in New York.

* * *

ST LOUIS—The weather held the key to the Cardinals' much discussed infield problem today as the St. Louis teams steamed up for their annual city series. Manager Ray Blades said if the air was warm and the field dry he would have Jimmy Brown at third and Johnny Mize at first, otherwise he intended to use Don Gutteridge and Johnny Hopp—with Stu Martin at second and Martin Marion in short.

* * *

CINCINNATI—Irked by the many cancellations the Detroit Tigers have suffered because of the weather en route north, owner Walter Briggs is considering having the team remain at Lakeland, Fla., next spring until a few days before the season opens. Manager Del Baker planned to decide between Buck Newsom and Tommy Bridges for next Tuesday's starting assignment after today's workout against the Cincinnati Reds.

* * *

BROOKLYN—The Flatbush fans think they'll be seeing a preview of the World Series today and tomorrow, weather permitting, when the Dodgers entertain the New York Yankees. Morse Joe McCarthy of the Yanks assigned Charley Ruffing to three innings of service today as a warm up for Tuesday's opener against the A's.

* * *

CLEVELAND—Snow covered league park today and reduced the scheduled series of the New York Giants and Cleveland Indians here to one slightly doubtful date tomorrow. This forced managers of both teams to forego tryouts for the pitchers they want to use in Tuesday's openers—Carl Hubbell and Bob Feller.

* * *

CHICAGO—The Cubs and White Sox were ready to tangle before the home folks today for the first time this season, if the weather man could be lured into agreement. Snow and low temperatures forced out their scheduled start yesterday. Bill Lee of the Cubs and Edgar Smith of the White Sox were on call for pitching duty.

Leafs Fresher Than Rangers

TORONTO, April 13 (AP) — Manager Lester Patrick of the New York Rangers, who can keep as straight a face as the next jester, brought up his six-game prediction for hockey's Stanley Cup Series again today.

"There is just a possibility," Patrick said, "that the Rangers will beat Toronto tonight.

"In that case the club's train will leave Toronto with the cup at 8 o'clock Sunday morning and there is no reason all you celebrants shouldn't finish in time to catch that train."

Although this game — and the seventh next Tuesday if it is needed —will be played on the Maple Leafs' own ice and the Toronto players are considerably fresher than the New Yorkers, there was no denying the fact the Rangers needed only one victory to end the series.

This was good enough for the odds makers. They were quoting 3 to 2 and 5 to 3 that the Broadway Blues finish it tonight and 2 to 1 that the Rangers would win if forced to go another game.

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

Horsemen Opposed To Winter Racing

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—If you're looking for a nice simple way to start a riot, just s tep up to the nearest bunch of horsemen and bring up the subject of winter racing as a good or an evil for coming 3-year-old gallopers.

The resultant argument may not exactly wind up in a war, but if you're of a mine to start the thing, always remember you're strictly on your own thereafter.

For years, the pros and cons have been tossing this subject around like Babe Ruth used to pitch the medicine ball in the spring to tighten his tummy.

Those who believe in racing horses during the winter between their two and three-year old campaigns argue that a juvenile performer never really gets going until the fall of his first season, and that to put him away then for the cold season is just undoing a lot of good.

LAWRIN EXAMPLE

They point to Lawrin, who won the Derby two years ago after taking the Flamingo at Hialeah, and to Black Gold, who turned the trick 14 years before that.

They contend that's a pretty good average, since it's only a comparatively short time since winter racing amounted to more than a nickel's worth, and they shout that this year you're going to see something from such of the recent California and Florida campaigners as Woof Woof and Sweepida, Prompt Pay, Mioland, Chatted and the fillies, Little Risk and Augury.

The other side, such authorities as Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, heehaw at this theory. They argue that you're wearing your youngster out running him over the winter—that, if you've a mind to point him for the big three-year-old stakes, you're not giving him a chance to grow up right.

Their contention is that winter galloping can break more than it can make and that you can count on the fingers of one hand—and still have enough left over to pick up the dinner check—the number of such gallopers that amounted to anything as three-year-olds.

Well, from the looks of things, both sides are going to have a chance to test their theories this year. Opposing such of the non-winter hopefuls as Bimelech and Andy K. are eight or a dozen of the California and Florida fellows and lassies who looked like they might have the stuff.

There's Woof Woof, the Jock Whitney colt who isn't eligible for the Derby, but who won the mile-and-eighth Flamingo hands down in 1:50 1-5 this year and will try against Bimmie and Andy K. in the Preakness and Belmont.

On the other coast, it was Sweepida, H. C. Hill's brown gelding, who came home in the Santa Anita Derby, who has won $46,250 in four 1939 outings, and who may be a supplementary Preakness entrant. He, too, was not made eligible for the Kentucky Derby.

HOWARD HAS LUCK

Charles S. Howard, who probably could drop into a stable full of beer truck horses and come out with a stake winner with his racing luck, paid $15,000 for the "colt of all nations," Mioland, not so long ago, and this son of the German stallion, Mid D'Arezzo, is getting a terrific play in the Kentucky Derby future books, the odds-layers report. He has proved he can go the route with the best of 'em.

Along with him in the run for the roses May 4 you're likely to see such other of the winter warriors as Chatted, the mud-running fool from Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' stable; W. F. Hoffman's Royal Crusader, a $1200 Saratoga yearling sale purchase who even Howard thinks is going places, and Harold A. Clark's Royal Man, winner at a mile and an eighth this winer, and, on his dam's side, from the bloodline of The Finn, who sired two Derby winners in Zev and Flying Ebony.

WOOLF HAS COLT

Herbert M. Woolf has a good-looking Insco colt in Prompt Pay, which ran second in the Flamingo and Leo. J. Marks has Multitude, a fast-closing fourth in the same stake. They're eligible for the Derby, too.

Warren Wright's filly, Little Risk, with the fine breeding of Stimulus and a Sir Gallahad III mare, is eligible for the Derby, after winning four straight winter starts, but "a filly's still a filly in the run home" at the Downs. The other half of the top three-year-old feminine contingent is Augury, winner of $21,700 for Nell McCarthy this winter. Some say she was even better than the boys at Santa Anita.

BROWN-EYED MARTHA LLOYD DEFIES CHAMP

PITTSBURGH, April 13 (AP)—Students of suburban Munhall High School saw nothing exciting in Carnegie Tech's 21-year-old Rosemary Novack being acclaimed the best woman rifle shot on intercollegiate records with 70 straight bulls-eyes.

They have 17-year-old Martha Lloyd, 1939-40 individual scholastic champion who has scored 111 consecutive perfect shots and is the only girl to win the Goodings rifle trophy.

Brown-eyed Martha has the leading position on the varsity team which is the first high school outfit to win the rifle association's biweekly series four years in a row.

Vanderbilt Team In Final Round

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—The Harold S. Vanderbilt bridge team went into the finals of the Vanderbilt Cup tournament today after defeating a foursome headed by Morrie Ells of New York by the narrow margin of 110 points.

In the finals tonight, the Vanderbilt team will met a virtually unknown group from the Long Island Bridge League which defeated the defending champions, led by Harry B. Raffel, with a plus score of 1980 in the semi-finals.

Few Victories Will Lift Dizzy's Club Standing

CHICAGO, April 13 (AP)—Dizzy Dean, the greatest one-man show on earth, hasn't done anything that a few mound victories won't.

But can he produce those victories? That's what Manager Gabby Hartnett, Owner Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs, his teammates and lots of Cub partisans would like to know.

"We're interested chiefly in whether Dean can pitch and win," explained Wrigley. "If he can do that we can put up with a lot of departures from orthodox conduct, I suppose."

BITTER WITH THE SWEET

The Cub owner added he expected insubordination from Dizzy.

"We bought that when we bought him. But he'll be fined by Hartnett whenever his conduct merits it," Wrigley said.

Dizzy stepped out of bounds last Tuesday in Wichita, Kas., getting on the train almost an hour after curfew. Hartnett slapped a $100 fine on the eccentric pitcher. Dizzy said he wouldn't pay, but his wife Patricia, soon changed his tune Mrs. Dean said Dizzy had been a bad boy, that Hartnett was right and that her hubby would plank down the $100.

So, in Dizzy's own words, "everything's just swell with Gabby and me—I just want to get out there and pitch." How long things would stay "just swell" is as uncertain as Dean himself. And when Dizzy would pitch was another unanswered question.

TAGGED WASHOUT

Dean won only 13 games altogether in 1938 and 1939. He was rapidly becoming tagged as a washout and a real has-been when he silenced his critics for the time being by tossing five innings of shutout ball against the St. Louis Browns last Monday.

Dizzy immediately proclaimed his arm was in great shape, but some observers with the club figure he will be of little value to the Cubs on the mound. But as a headline figure, he doubtless will make a strong bid to defend his prized title.

action since. During the past week, however, he has lifted himself to an A-1 status by his sterling hitting. He hit a home run at Rocky Mount a week ago, and last Thursday repeated at Baltimore.

Dom was the only Sed Sox newcomer in the lineup though Herb Hash, rookie from Minneapolis, was to see action later on.

FOUR NEW BEES

On the Bees side of the fence, however, four new men were to be in the lineup. They were: Sebby Sisti, second base; Chet Ross, rookie left fielder; Bob Loane, center field, and Nick Strincevich, pitcher.

Strincevich is a product of the Yankee farm system. When he was with the chain, he was converted into a strictly over-hand hurler. But Casey Stengel, sensing his loss of effectiveness using that method, shifted him back to side-arm with pleasant results.

SOX HURLERS BETTER

Joe Cronin has satisfied himself that the Sox are better than they were a year ago. His pitching is improved, he says, what with Dickman, Bagby and Gallehouse all stepped up and Rookie Mickey Harris climbing fast.

Williams, left field sensation, should hit better than he ever did in his life, with only the shadow of Babe Ruth to stop him.

Sengel, keeper of the Bees, has sent Sisti back to second base, when Heinie Majeskie and Joe Gulledge failed to come through.

Sisti is a slick fielder, faster than Cooch, goes back to right field for those flies better. Gulledge and Majeski are not of major league calibre as yet.

Big Stables Quit Bowie For Gansett

By the Associated Press

The field for the Golden Jubilee Preakness will take on some semblance of form at midnight Monday when the deadline for supplementary entries falls.

From six to ten crack three-year-olds not included among the Preakness eligibles at present are expected to be entered before that time at a fee of $1500 each. Probably 50 others will be dropped on the same day, when an additional fee of $100 must be posted to keep eligible each of the horses originally nominated in July, 1938.

Seven other Pimlico stakes will also have their closings Monday.

HEAD FOR GANSETT

Nine large stables which have been quartered at Bowie planned to ship to Narragansett Park today. The horsemen who will campaign at the New England track include Arthur Hullcoat, Ace Hudkins, L. H. Smith, Pete Clausen, Ben Chapman, H. Stilman, Johnny Hogan, L. E. Cole and Jack Walsh.

In the general exodus Trainer Hirsch Jacobs has loaded the Bieber horses for the trip to Jamaica and Trainer Buster Bedwell shipped 12 of Gustave Ring's runners to Havre De Grace. The remainder of the Washington sportsman's string will follow at the close of the Bowie meeting.

BELAIR MONOPOLY

In the last 10 years the Belmont Stakes have been practically monopolized by the Belair stud. Beginning with the triumph of Gallant Fox in 1930 and continuing through to Johnstown's victory last year, this stable, under the masterful hand of Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, has scored five times. This year Belair will have Lady Greville, Foxflame and Fenelon ready to try again.

The sudden return of winter weather caught both Bowie and Keeneland in the middle of their programs yesterday. Thec ombination of snow and slet made it impossible to see some of the races at the Maryland course except as the horses battled down the stretch and, of course, times suffered accordingly.

DERBY EMBARRASSMENT

Five Kentucky Derby candidates were embarrassed at the Kentucky track as Town Boy, a three-year-old gelding not considered good enough for the Derby by Joe Widener, and regarded only a 7 to 1 chance in the betting, scored by a length and a half over Inscolad, a Derby eligible, in the Charles K. Hughes Handicap.

The time for the six furlongs was 1:13 2-5.

Dizzy Dame, a six-year-old mare owned by Hubert (Dynamite) Kerr, well-known horseman, won by two lengths at Bowie with a 1:13 4-5 performance for the six furlongs with J. P. McConnell's double second. The winner paid $9.70 for $2.

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP) — Civil war in the National Pro Football League seems to have been avoided after all.

JOHNNY KELLEY FINALLY JOINS PATRIOTS' DAY MARATHONERS

Johnny Kelley of Arlington will carry the colors of the Edison Employes' Club in the April 19 B. A. A. Marathon. The slim former winner of the Hopkinton to Boston footrace has sent his entry to Tom Kanaly and indicated he's ready to give everything to toil home in front again.

Johnny has dreamed of an April 19 victory ever since his 1935 conquest over a strong field. But a couple of times when he was a favorite he couldn't seem to summon enough strength for the big effort. Perhaps the tough schedule of road races he used each spring in preparation for the title event sapped his vitality.

RATED SELF CAREFULLY

At any rate, this year he has rated himself carefully, content to make a creditable showing when he did race, and it may be that his conservative tactics will pay dividends on Friday over the long course.

Kelley ran his first B. A. Marathon in 1928 and again in 1932 but on each occasion failed to finish. In 1933 Johnny placed 37th and the following year finished second to Dave Komonen. In 1935 Kelley won and in 1936 he finished fifth. That year Johnny was a member of the American Olympic Marathon team at the games held in Berlin and placed eighteenth in the Olympic race.

In 1937 Kelley finished second to Walter Young and in 1938 was third to Les Pawson. Last year Kelley finished thirteenth.

FINISHED SIXTH

Kelley won the North Medford 20 mile race for five consecutive years, 1934 through 1938, and this year finished sixth in that event.

Other entries announced today include John J. C. Maloney, Boston; Garnett D. Long, Boston; Warren A. Hawkins, Jr., Parker Club, Boston; Alson W. Cobb, Pat Smith's All-Stars, Mansfield; Oliver Wiljakinon, Florence A. A., Gardner; Fred A. McGlone, Norfolk Y. M. A., Roxbury; Roy Palmer, Vancouver, B. C., Canada; Michael J. O'Hara, Glencoe A. C., N. Y., who finished 21st last year, and A. A. Zamporelli, Medford.

Demaret Accepts Challenge

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP) — Jimmy (Laughing Boy) Demaret and 140-pound Ben Hogan, the first and second ranking professionals on golf's recently completed winter tour, today accepted invitations to compete in the $5000 Goodall round-robin tournament May 16-19 at the Fresh Meadow Country Club, Flushing, N. Y.

Elmer Ward, sponsor of the third annual tourney, said they are the first to accept invitations. Thirteen other pros will be chosen by a committee of sports writers.

Demaret was tops for the winter with $7652 in money-winning and 267 Vardon trophy points. Hogan was second in both divisions, with $6538 and 215 points.

Laughing Boy topped off his campaign by winning the Augusta Masters title after finishing first at Oakland, San Francisco, Houston, New Orleans and St. Petersburg. Hogan ran off a great streak in winning the North-South at Pinehurst and the Greensboro and Asheville (N. C.) opens with a combined score that was 34 under par for 216 holes.

In the Goodall, each man plays each of the others in an 18-hole match. First prize goes to the man with the highest net total of holes won. Sam Snead won at Cincinnati in 1938 and Harry Cooper last year at Fresh Meadow.

Managoff Seeks To Even Score

Bobby Managoff will try to even an old score on Wednesday night at the Arena when he grapples Ernie Dusek in the main event of Paul Bowser's tournament.

Two months back Dusek pinned Bobby at the Arena just after the latter had made a great bid to overcome the rough Mr. Dusek. Managoff wants to settle that score and perhaps move up again toward title-contender rating.

Since that time Bowser has tried in vain to get them together. The first time he matched them up Managoff had to withdraw because of an arm injury. The second time Ernie was forced to call off the bout.

Harvard Teams Out of Action

Inclement weather today forced the postponement of three tilts involving Harvard teams, but the lacrosse match will go as scheduled.

Rain, snow or cold seems to have little effect on the lacrosse teams, as the match between Harvard and Springfield will be played at Cambridge this afternoon at 3 p. m.

The Harvard-Tufts varsity baseball game has been called off. Freshman nines of the same two schools were to have played at Medford but that game is also postponed.

A rugby tussle between Harvard and the Boston Rugby Club has been put over until a future date.

Park League Opens May 13

The Boston Park twi baseball campaigns will start the 1940 pennant race on Monday, May 13, according to Park League President Bill Mullen.

The top league will operate on a ten-club basis once again, the veteran prexy stated, with seven of last year's clubs returning; 1939 champion Dick Casey Club, St. Augustine's, Navy Yard A. A., St. Catherine's, Star of the Sea Club, St. Alphonsus A. A. and South Boston Town Club.

At an organizational meeting on next Tuesday night at 440 Park Drive, bids for the remaining franchises in the league will be voted on, and as all applications will be treated on an impartial basis, clubs wishing to enter should communicate with Mullen before next Tuesday.

'Chi' Monarchs In Limelight

DETROIT, April 13 (AP)—Enthusiastic fans believe that the first 3000 series of the current American Bowling Congress tournament is due tonight, if ever. Potent threats are scheduled in the Chicago Monarchs who hit 3008 last year and the Bowes Seal Fast of Indianapolis.

Ad Carlson's Chicago Joseph Gills tried last night as did defending all-events champion Joe Wilman's Budweisers. The Gills team hit 2912 for ninth place among the leaders with Wallie Freitag at 616 and William Hargadon at 608.

Wilman stopped at 581 and his team from Chicago's suburban Cicero hit 2859, just 181 pins below their 1939 mark of 3040.

Maxie Stein, holder of the ABC all-time all-events high of 2070, gave his Burbank, Cal., Warner Brothers team only 558 in the five-man appearance but came back with 745 in the doubles.

Modest support by Carl Stoerkel held the duo to 1265. In the singles Maxie got 598. His total of 1901 was good for a fifth place tie with Charles Neeb of Columbus, O., in the all-events.

AMBERS OFF FOR GO

NEW YORK, April 13 (INS)—Lightweight champion Lou Ambers will leave Monday for Denver for a non-title bout with Wally Hally on April 17, and will meet Norment Quarles at Charleston, W. Va., in another over-the-weight match on April 25, Al Weill, his manager, announced today.

French on Way

The Bees today announced they have sent Bob French, right handed pitcher, back to Indianapolis. The Bees got French from Indianapolis last fall under an agreement by which he would be returned to that club if he failed to make good.

Skiers Tackle Mt. Washington

PINKHAM NOTCH, N. H., April 13 (INS)—The American inferno, most dangerous downhill ski race in this country, will be run today off Mt. Washington with 50 ski experts taking part.

An expected crowd of 5000 began the tortuous climb through Tuckerman's Ravine early in the day to gain vantage points where they may watch the four-mile four-thousand-foot descent.

The course leads over the precipitous headwall of the ravine where the racers plunge to the bottom in one drop at virtually a 45 degree angle.

5 Horses Go In Big Event

BOWIE, Md., April 13 (AP)—Five thoroughbreds were scheduled to test the soggy Bowie track today in the closing track feature of the spring meeting, the $5000-added Southern Maryland Handicap.

A day of rain and snow and prospects for near-freezing conditions today left only these five entries in the event:

A. J. Abel's Honey Cloud, carrying top weight of 120 pounds; Conde Rico, 112 pounds, and Confiado, 110, both owned by Isadore Bieber; W. L. Brann's Aethelwold, 115, and Rodin, 108, owned by J. Wormser.

Tordiglione Given Place On Champ's Card

Billy Tordiglione, North End's up and coming welterweight, will be on the card with the 147-pound champion of the world himself, Henry Armstrong, when hammerin' Henry comes here for the first time to give Paul Junior a shot at his crown at the Boston Garden on Friday night, April 26.

Matchmaker Rip Valenti of the Goodwin A. C., which presents New England's most attractive fight show in more than 10 years, has announced the supporting card, consisting of five six-rounders, with Tordiglione tackling Bill Connerly, Jamaica Plain.

WON ALL PRO FIGHTS

The North End kid, who recently turned pro, has swept through all fights to date and the experts have stamped him as one of the finest prospects hereabouts, saying he may be the one to develop into a conender for Armstrong's crown in a few years.

Other six-rounders scheduled are Jack Caparell, Roxbury, vs. Eddie Ellis, Quincy; Dom DeClantis, Providence, vs. Marty Servo, New York; Young Dempsey, Portsmouth, N. H., vs. Solly Seaman, Quincy; and Bonner Ramillard, Worcester, vs. Fred McLean, Roxbury.

Caparell and Ellis engage in a return showing of their recent slugfest; McLean won his last by a one-punch, first-round knockout and the Roxbury Negro lad is moving along rapidly.

GETTING IN CONDITION

Meanwhile, Armstrong and Junior are bearing down on their conditioning work, Junior at his Lewiston, Me., camp and the champion in New York, while the cutomers are bearing down on the Goodwin A. C. headquarters, looking for tickets.

BELGIANS, DUTCH DOUBLE GUARDS

BRUSSELS, April 13 (AP)—The Belgian army today placed military guards on all government offices, radio stations and air fields in or near Brussels. An official spokesman said this was done "because of the general tension." Army leaves are cut as Nazi advance fears grow.

THE HAGUE, THE NETHERLANDS, April 13 (AP)—Martial law was extended by royal decree today to new areas in the southern provinces of Noord Brabant and in northern and eastern provinces. This is the first extension of martial law since November 1, 1939, when numerous strategic points on land and sea were placed under military control.

FRENCH BIG GUNS PUSH NAZIS BACK

British Bomber Raid—This radiophoto, passed by the British censor, was released by the British ministry of information today. It is described as a photo, made from a high-flying British plane, showing Royal Air Force bombers flying low over Stavanger, Norway, during the raid staged on the German-occupied port yesterday. Among the damage claimed by the British was the destruction of a petrol (gasoline) dump. The R. A. F. bombers attacked Nazi craft in the fjord with bomb and machine gun.
